GERMAN CRUISER ORDERED OUT OF U. S. PORT

LATEST WARSHIPS OF ALLIES LIE IN WAIT

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 11.—(Bulletin)—The captain of the German cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, which sank the Maine ship William P. Frye, was ordered this afternoon to leave port within twenty-four hours or show cause why necessary repairs will keep him here longer. The twenty-four hours expire at noon tomorrow. If the German captain does not leave or show why necessary repairs will keep him here longer, his cruiser will be interned by the United States government.

Government Investigates Sinking of Maine Ship

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 11.—While wireless dispatches reported eight French and British cruisers rushing toward the Virginia coast to lie in wait for the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, the United States began a formal investigation of the sinking of the American bark William P. Frye today.

The eight allied warships waiting for the Prinz Eitel Friedrich are the British cruisers Caronia, Essex, Lancaster, Suffolk, Berwick and Bristol, and the French cruisers Conde and Descartes.

"A most searching inquiry will be made and whatever action is taken will be based on the result of that inquiry."

President Wilson issued this statement at Washington this noon. The President today took the initiative in directing the investigation and will have a personal hand in it.

Attaches of the office of Collector of the Port Nathan R. Hamilton asserted today that, in view of the evidence brought out by the Collector's examination of Captain H. H. Kiehne and the crew of the Frye, good basis had been secured for holding the German vessel as security for damages to which the Frye's owners are entitled.

Children Perish by Fire in Maine

MAPLETON, Me., March 11.—Two children of Melvin Archer, Bernard, five years of age, and Howard, three years old, perished in a fire that destroyed the family home today while the family were asleep. The parents and five children escaped. Mr. Archer made a desperate, but ineffectual attempt to rescue the youngest two children.

Opera Stars Among 14 Killed in Wreck

MADRID, March 11.—Fourteen persons were killed and eighteen injured in the wreck of a passenger train on the Vigo-Orense line today. A landslide caused the accident. Among the dead are the director, tenor and prima donna of the Anopelli operatic company.

President Cancels 3 Weeks' Dates

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Because of the gravity of the foreign situation, President Wilson cancelled all engagements for the coming three weeks.

QUINCY HOUSE.
Planked Steak or Chicken, $1.50, served for two persons in the Japanese Gardens.

TODAY'S MARKET SUMMARY.

Stocks were irregular in both the New York and Boston stock markets at the opening. The changes were fractional. The Steel tonnage report for February was disappointing to bulls, but for all that is regarded as a good showing.

There was little feature to early trading anywhere. The Bank of England reports a decrease of $676,000 in its gold for the week. Its proportion of reserve to liabilities is 24.47 per cent., against 25.71 last week.

At the opening in Boston American Zinc was unchanged at 57¾. United Fruit was off ½ at 119, Copper Range was up ¼ at 54⅝, Amalgamated was up ¼ at 58, Osceola was up ¾ at 72, Alaska Gold was off ¼ at 30⅜ and Franklin was off ¾ at 5⅝.

In New York Erie was up ⅛ at 22¼, Missouri Pacific was off ⅝ at 11⅜, General Electric was unchanged at 140, Consolidated Gas was off ⅝ at 115, Leather was up ¼ at 33⅝. Steel was off ¼ at 44⅝, Third Avenue was up ¼ at 32⅛, and Union Pacific was unchanged at 120.

The New York cotton market opened steady with prices ranging from 6 points lower to 1 point higher.

Little Son Comes to Governor Whitman

ALBANY, N. Y., March 11.—A son was born today to Governor and Mrs. Whitman. Both mother and baby are doing well.

Questions Members of Frye's Crew.

Collector Hamilton, acting upon instructions from the State Department, boarded the German vessel by appointment with her captain, Commander Thierichens, to secure his version of the destruction of the American ship.

That the German Embassy at Washington regards the inquiry as of the utmost importance was shown by its action in sending here Captain Boy-Ed, its naval attache. He arrived early today and at once undertook the task of safeguarding German interests involved in the case.

Collector Hamilton had learned the version of the crew of the Frye before he made his arrangement to board the Prinz Eitel. Last night he took the statement of the captain of the American ship and this morning he questioned the members of the Frye's crew who had been kept on board the Prinz Eitel over night.

The story told by Captain Kiehne was regarded by Collector Hamilton of so great importance that he declined to make it public. Instead, he transmitted it to Washington and also requested Kiehne to report tomorrow to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Peters. The skipper will leave here tonight.

Believe Eitel's Raiding Career Ended.

It was the general impression among federal officials here today that the raiding career of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich had ended. They believe that she will be interned. According to their interpretation of the international law the twenty-four-hour limit applicable to the present case expired at 3 o'clock this morning, as the Prinz Eitel entered American waters at that hour yesterday morning. This extract from John Bassett Moore's text book on international law governs the case, they said:

"If any ship of war or privateer of either belligerent shall, after the time this notification takes effect, enter any port, harbor, roadstead, or waters of the United States, such vessel shall be caused to depart and to put to sea within twenty-four hours after her entrance into such port, except in case of stress of war, her requiring provisions or things necessary for the subsistence of her crew, or for repairs. In either of these cases the authorities of the port shall require her to put to sea as soon as possible after the expiration of twenty-four hours.

"No ship of war shall be permitted while in any United

SARAH BERNHARDT'S LEG.

Sarah Bernhardt is a good friend of the '49 Camp at the San Francisco Exposition, says the San Francisco Town Talk.

"We sent her this cable the other day," said Manager Sam Davis:

"Sorry to hear of operation. Can we exhibit your leg at the Forty-Nine Camp, World's Fair? Proceeds to go to charity."

"And do you know what she replied?"

I shook my head.

"She cabled back to us: 'Which leg?'" said Sam Davis.

Trawler Sunk by Submarine Gunfire

NEW HAVEN, Eng., March 11.—Members of the crew of the steam trawler Grimes, which was sunk in the channel by a German submarine on Tuesday, said today that the commander of the Kaiser's boat gave them twenty minutes in which to leave their vessel. At the expiration of that time the trawler was sunk by gunfire, the submarine thus avoiding the use of a torpedo.

Widow Follows Schieren in Death

NEW YORK, March 11.—Just twenty-four hours after her husband died, Mrs. Louisa A. Schieren, widow of the former Mayor of Brooklyn, passed away in her Brooklyn home today, victim of pneumonia, the same disease which caused her husband's death. She contracted her illness while nursing her husband. She was seventy-three years old, the same age as her husband. Husband and wife will be buried together.

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases.

Both air and water seem to have a bad effect upon skin diseases like Eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do. By using Cuticura, the well-known remedy for skin diseases, air and water are excluded, because Cuticura contains petrolatum and white wax, and these form a tight covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cuticura also contains oil of cade, which has been successfully used many years by the medical profession in the treatment of Eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is inflamed, irritated or sore, get a 25c box of Cuticura of your druggist and try it! The 25c size box contains nearly four times as much as the 10c size and is cheaper to buy.

SINKING OF FRYE UNFRIENDLY ACT, IS VIEW HELD AT WASHINGTON

Prinz Eitel May Be Held by the United States Until Redress Is Given by Germany.

States port, harbor or roadstead, to take in supplies except provisions as may be requisite for the subsistence of her crew, and except so much coal only as may be sufficient to carry such vessel, if without sail power, to the nearest European port of her own country, and no coal shall be again supplied to any such ship in the same or any other United States port until after the expiration of three months, unless such ship shall have entered a European port of the government to which she belongs."

If the Prinz Eitel's captain should elect to leave his refuge, the German ship would run into a cordon of warships from which it would be unable to escape. Throughout the war no ships have been surrendered by the Germans, so that, if the Prinz Eitel sailed from port, there would probably be a battle, notwithstanding the tremendous odds against her.

ELEVEN SHIPS SUNK BY RAIDER.

One hundred and fifty sacks of mail, taken from the French steamer Floride when that vessel of 6,839 tons was sunk by the Prinz Eitel, were brought ashore today and started for New York for transshipment to the South American ports for which it was intended.

During her career as a sea raider the Prinz Eitel Friedrich sunk eleven ships belonging to four nations. These vessels, having a tonnage of more than 58,000, were:

American—William P. Frye.
British—Harpalyce, Mary Ada Ehort, Willerby, Schargost and Cindracos.
Russian—Isabella Browne.
French—Floride, Pierre Loti, Jacobsen and eJan.

The German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, now at Newport News, Va., which sunk in all eleven merchant vessels.

BELIEVE SINKING OF FRYE WILL BE REGARDED AS UNFRIENDLY

WASHINGTON, March 11.—It is believed in official circles that Washington will regard the blowing up of the Frye as an unfriendly act.

In this case Germany will be called upon to make the usual honorable amends, as required by international laws, together with reparation for the owners.

Besides the State and Treasury Departments, two others are involved in the Eitel Friedrich's case. The Navy Department is concerned because the German cruiser seeks to make repairs at a naval depot. The Labor Department is interested because of the immigration problem presented by the refugees aboard the cruiser.

The entrance of the Eitel Friedrich at an American port following her sinking a United States merchant vessel is believed here to be the most important complication in which the United States has been involved since the beginning of the war.

President Wilson and scores of advisers have consulted earnestly over the matter. Up to a late hour Assistant Treasurer Peters, in charge of the customs, was closeted with Secretary McAdoo, following a conference with Secretary Bryan.

There is every reason today to believe the Frye's destruction will almost immediately become an issue between Germany and the United States.

The ground upon which the Germans will probably defend the sinking of the Frye was indicated authoritatively here. The German captain will justify the sending of the American ship to the bottom by claiming that he acted under the provisions of the declaration of London, which permits foodstuffs to be treated as contraband if consigned to the armed forces of the enemy or his government departments.

The official interpretation of this provision states that this destination may be assigned if the wheat is consigned to a naval base of the enemy. The Prinz Eitel Friedrich will contend that Liverpool is to be considered as an English naval base during this war.

U. S. WILL TAKE ISSUE.

Though it is improbable that the United States will accept the designation of Liverpool as a naval base, this will not be the main issue from the American point of view, for the reason that the United States does not recognize the Declaration of London as having any particular force in this war.

In a recent note to Great Britain the United States protested against a treatment of foodstuffs as contraband of war unless actually consigned to the armed forces of the enemy. This position it has since upheld in all the discussions with the belligerents. It cannot accept consignment of a cargo of wheat to Liverpool as sufficient evidence to prove that the wheat was consigned to the armed forces of the British. Therefore, unless the German captain can produce conclusive evidence of consignment to the British armed forces, the United States government will take sharp issue with the German government on this ground.

Captain Boy-Ed, the German naval attache, was in New York Wednesday morning when the German cruiser came into Newport News with 242 prisoners aboard. He is expected to join in the inquiry at Norfolk today.

FREE PRISONERS TODAY.

The prisoners on the cruiser include 200 seamen and about 150 passengers, many of them women and children, from the respective victims of the naval auxiliary.

Among them are English, Portuguese, French, Turks, Russians and Americans. It is expected all will be brought ashore today and set free. The captains have already been sent ashore.

Dr. H. W. McafFerty, quarantine officer at Old Point, who visited the Eitel Friedrich, said:

"All the prisoners will be given liberty in Newport News but four, if they want to [illegible] the Eitel Friedrich. These four declined to sign papers that they would not take arms against Germany, and will be kept prisoners on that account.

"Three others fill be detained. One has a wooden leg, another is suffering from tuberculosis and the other is deaf. That will naturally force them to be classed as undesirable immigrants."

MAY LIBEL CRUISER.

When informed of the sinking of the William P. Frye, an American clipper ship, by the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, D. H. Dearborn, agent of the vessel, said the German cruiser might be libeled for the cost of the ship and cargo, estimated at $1,200,000.

"The owners of the Frye are Arthur Sewall & Sons of Bath, Me., said Dearborn, "and I will wire them immediately for instructions as to how to proceed in the matter. The sinking of the ship raises a serious complication, and it is possible that we will libel the German cruiser for the value of the ship and cargo. This is probably about $1,200,000."

The captains of the ships destroyed by the Prinz Eitel all talked freely today.

Captain Monssion of the French steamer Florida said he was fire selling days from Bahia when stopped by the Prinz Eitel. Bombs failed to sink the vessel and guns from the Prinz Eitel completed her destruction early next morning.

Captain Dobbing of the British steamer Mary Ada Ehirt said a charge of dynamite in the hold of his vessel blew her bottom out, but did not sink her, owing to the nature of her cargo. Several shells, however, finished of the wreck.

Captain Erickson of the Russian bark Isabel Browne said:

"I was becalmed in the South Atlantic, 2.56, 24.56, when the German cruiser hove in sight shortly after dusk on the evening of January 26. The German captain told me the ship would be sunk. A dynamite bomb was placed in the hold and within a few moments the bark had plunged beneath the waves."

Captain King of the British bark Inverose said his vessel was sunk with an explosion of dynamite.

CAPTAIN KIEHNE OF THE FRYE DESCRIBES SINKING OF SHIP

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 11.—Describing the sinking of his ship by the German auxiliary cruiser Eitel Friedrich, Captain H. H. Kiehne, master of the four-masted American bark William P. Frye, said today:

Despite my protestation that I was an American master of an American ship, the German cruiser Eitel Friedrich sank the William P. Frye on the morning of January 28, blowing a gaping hole through her vitals with a charge of dynamite.

I was becalmed when the German ship appeared about 7 o'clock in the forenoon of January 28. My ship was barely moving and I paid no attention to the first order from the Dutchman to lay to. However, she bore down on me, and I brought my craft to a standstill. After learning that I carried a cargo of wheat, the German captain told me that it was contraband and he intended to destroy it. I protested, but no attention was paid to my statements.

A German officer and squad of men was sent aboard the bark and I and my crew were set to work throwing grain overboard.

The German sighted another vessel, also becalmed, and made for her. He returned about 10 o'clock at night, having sent the other ship to the bottom, as I afterward ascertained. Evidently the grain was not being thrown overboard fast enough to suit the German skipper, for he sent a half hundred of his men aboard soon after, and the work went on for hours without interruption. However, it was slow work at best, and I was informed next morning that my ship would be sent to the bottom, which was done in the manner described.

It was originally the intention of the German captain to leave enough of the cargo in the hold of the ship for ballast. That part of the grain was to be rendered useless by salt water.

As soon as I was informed that my ship was to be sent to the bottom, I, my wife and two boys and the crew made for the German cruiser in our boats. We were taken on board and shown every courtesy throughout the remainder of the voyage.

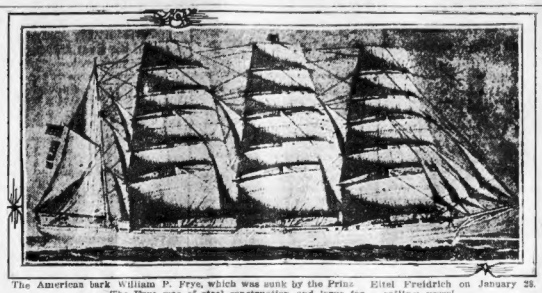
For two weeks before making this port the German ship mentioned no ships of any kind as always avoided them, not wishing to give the English cruisers an wind of her intentions. She proceeded slowly up the coast, lights that were not out being carefully shaded.

SUNK 3 ON KAISER'S BIRTHDAY.

Tuesday night, while nearing the Capes, the wireless apparatus on board the German ship informed us that there were 5 English warships in our immediate vicinity, two of which seemed very close. However, we eluded them and made this port in safety.

An officer of the German cruiser stated that a black bulk was seen in the darkness about midnight, the wireless gave notice of the proximity of the English men-of-war. Many were of the opinion that it was one of the ships, but nothing came of the matter.

The Eitel Friedrich sent three ships to the bottom on the Kaiser's birthday, the day on which the American bark was overhauled. I do not remember their names.



The American bark William P. Frye, which was sunk by the Prinz Eitel Freidrich on January 28. The Frye was of steel construction and large for a sailing vessel.

EITEL'S CAPTAIN TELLS STORY OF SINKING OF THE FRYE

NORFOLK, Va., March 13.—Obtaining instruction of the American ship William P. Frye because she carried contraband of war. He says he and the other officers on his ship held a conference and it was decided that the cargo of wheat carried by the Frye was contraband, and they decided to destroy the vessel.

"Seven months ago," he said, "the Prinz Eitel Friedrich left Tsingtau.

"Our crew was composed of officers and men from the gunboats Tiger and Luchs. The three 8-inch guns and eight 6-inch guns we mounted came from those two boats, which were dismantled.

"We passed out through the Japanese Islands and sighted a number of English, French and Japanese warships.

"The Prinz Eitel had been converted into an armed merchantman on such short notice that we had no time to put on our war paint. Our first capture was the Schargost, an English steamer of 6,000 tons. We were anxious to get coal, and were greatly disappointed when we found the Schargost carried but very little.

"Next we encountered the French sailing ship Jean, coal laden. This ship was towed 1,500 miles to Easter Island, her coal transferred to our own bunkers, and we landed there the survivors of the Jean, the Schargost and the English steamer Kelvidon, which en route to Easter Islands.

"After landing the survivors, the Jean was blown up.

Captain Thierishens said that while coming up the South Atlantic, his wireless operator heard eight warships exchanging wireless messages. He believed these to be Admiral Stardee's squadron which sank the Germans off the Falkland Islands.

"The Hamilton bark Isabelle Brown was the next victim of the Prinz Eitel," continued the captain. "The Brown was burned. Next came the French ship Pierre Loti, which was sunk.

"Then the American bark William P. Frye, was sunk, and the French bark Jacobsen, encountered soon after, met the same fate.

"We tried to catch some other

Sinking an American Ship Might Be Considered "Indefensible," Said Wilson

If the commanders of German vessels of war should destroy on the high seas an American vessel it would be difficult for the government of the United States to view the act in any other light than an indefensible violation of neutral rights, which it would be very hard indeed to reconcile with the friendly relations now happily subsisting between the two governments.

If such a deplorable situation should arise, the Imperial German government can readily appreciate that the government of the United States would be constrained to hold the Imperial German government to a strict accountability for such acts of their naval authorities and to take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard the lives and property and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of their acknowledged rights on the high seas.—From President Wilson's warning to the German government sent February 10.

vessels, but encountered only neutrals, so steamed north. On February 4 we met the Norwegian bark Thalaria and let her go unharmed.

"The British bark Invercoe was sunk February 15. The Mary Ada Scott, laden with corn, was sunk. The next day we met and sunk the French steamer Floride, after taking off passengers, crew and provisions. The Floride we left burning and about to go down off the Brazilian coast.

"On February 27 we sunk the British steamer Willesley and the same night we heard warships sending wireless messages. One of them we thought was the Berwick, so we put to sea to leave their neighborhood. We put in here to land 350 passengers, 40 women and children and to effect urgent repairs.

"I believe we were followed by six British warships when we were nearing the Virginia Capes. We could hear them, but we could not see them. We were showing them our heels, however, and we ran at night with every light out.

"We were near the battle of the Chilian coast when the British squadron was defeated by the Germans. We heard messages exchanged by ships participating in that engagement.

"The Prinz Eitel traveled for a while with her famous fellow sea rover, the Emden, and when she left the latter ship was accompanied by the Cormorant."

The Eitel Friedrich has on board a large amount of gold, said to be $2,000,000 taken from ships she had sunk.

One hundred and fifty sacks of mail taken from the French steamer Floride will today be sent to New York for distribution.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffling, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream th your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head, soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membranes, and relief comes instantly.

It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.—Advertisement.

EITEL'S CAPTAIN REFUSES TO GIVE UP PAPERS OF THE FRYE

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 11.—A new sensation developed in connection with the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich this noon, when it became known that her captain, Commander Thierichens, was still holding the papers of the American bark William P. Frye, which the German warship sank on January 27. The papers have been demanded by Collector of the Port Norman B. Hamilton, but thus far the German commander has not yielded.

Collector Hamilton made the following statement: "Up to this time the master of the German craft has not conceded the right of the master of the Frye to his papers and is holding them, contending that they should be held and sent to Germany, where certain questions concerning the destruction of the American hull may be decided by a German prize court. The captain of the Prinz Eitel has, however, agreed to deliver to me copies of the Frye's papers, but I have requested that he hand me the original papers and keep copies, and he now has this request under consideration."

CARVER DECLARES SINKING AN OFFENCE AGAINST U. S. FLAG

Attorney Eugene P. Carver, an authority on international law, declares the sinking of the American bark William P. Frye by the German auxiliary cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich "an offence against the United States flag." He said today:

"The place of capture was in the South Atlantic, far removed from the place where a blockade could be created or war zone established, so that in any event the seizure of the ship on the part of Germany is one for which she should be responsible in damages, and this is no exactly the same principle for which the acts of France from 1797 to 1800 were protested against and which resulted in the so-called French Spoliation Claims.

"The United States government, through our State Department, should at once demand of Germany damages and an apology for such a high-handed and outrageous act.

HYDE PARK WINS ROOSTER RIGHT

At last Hyde Park has landed something—the right to keep roosters.

Ever since Hyde Park became Ward 26 of Boston, the Hyde Parkers have been wanting their rights, as they saw them. Among the improvements the new ward has been demanding from Dame Boston are:

Eighty-cent gas.

Five-cent fare to Boston.

New police station.

Widening of Hyde Park avenue.

And some more things. But none of these improvements have happened.

To turn the knife around, from the H. P. point of view, the Boston Board of Health began about two months ago to clamp down the rooster lid. The municipal health regulations forbid the keeping of hens in the city, except under special permit, and the keeping of roosters under any conditions. Roosters crow and disturb urban slumber. Hence the unconditional rooster ban.

Hyde Park hen and rooster keepers had to get hen permits and eliminate their roosters. The rooster death rate went up to a high peak, as statisticians say. Cocks and cockerels were slaughtered or sold, amid Hyde Park tears.

So they started a petition that Hyde Park, being mostly country-like, be allowed to keep its roosters. There was no trouble getting 1,700 names to this petition. One page held the names of ten physicians, as an argument that roosters did not injure the Hyde Park health.

Only sixteen people declined to sign, but these made no active opposition when the petition was presented to the city health board by Frank B. Webster on behalf of the rooster-keepers.

Today Mr. Webster was notified by Dr. Francis X. Maher, chairman of the health board, that the petition has been granted.

The glad word was spread about and rooster-lovers began steps to rehabilitate their censored hangries.

With the roosters as an entering wedge, the Hyde Parkers now have renewed vigor with which to go after 35-cent gas, 5-cent fares, etc., etc.

Judge Ben Lindsey May Lose His Job

DENVER, Col., March 11.—The Colorado House of Representatives has passed on final reading three bills to abolish the juvenile court and transfer its work to the district courts. One effect of the bills, if they become law, would be to remove from office Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the juvenile court.

Condition of Miss Keller Not Serious

AUSTIN, Tex., March 11.—Dr. Joe E. Wooten, attending physician of Miss Helen Keller, who is at a local infirmary, states: "Miss Keller is suffering from an attack of acute cold and bronchitis. She has no symptoms of pneumonia. Her condition is not serious."

WINNIFRED VINAL, Waltham High junior, who leads faction for informal dress at coming school social event.

DRESS ROW IN WALTHAM HIGH

"To dress or not to dress, that is the question" out in the Waltham High School these days; but for the benefit of Mark Grundy he it promptly stated that "dress" is used in the formal, conventional, worn too sense of "adorn one's self in one's gladdest rags."

There are two camps in the school. One favors dress suits and evening gowns as the only fitting garb on the occasion of the junior "prom," which is to occur May 28.

The other faction, of which Winnifred Vinal is the spirited leader, urges giddy blouses for the girls and flannel trousers for the young gentlemen as entirely appropriate.

Following the vote of two days ago, which resulted in a hollow victory for the "dress" faction, both sides are today engaged in proselyting at high speed.

Quality First

Plenty of "reasons why" about Campbell's Tomato Soup

And the reason why it tastes so good and looks so good, is the same reason why it does you good. The tomatoes we use are red-ripe, juicy and perfect—full of tonic quality and appetizing flavor. All other materials in this tasty soup are equally high-grade and wholesome. It is a nourishing soup. Its regular use improves digestion and helps to build you up.

The right way is to buy it by the dozen. Keep it on hand, and enjoy it often. How is your supply today?

MORE DARDANELLES DEFENCES SILENCED BY ALLIED FLEET

LONDON, March 11.—The silencing point and fresh defensive works of more Turkish guns on the Asiatic erected.
side of the Narrows in the Dardanelles by the Anglo-French fleet was announced in dispatches received today from Athens.

Three stated that hidden batteries, lying between Kombez and Chanak, had been put out of commission by projectiles from the heavy guns on board the warships. The dispatch did not say, however, when this feat was accomplished.

Aviators who made an aerial reconnaissance over the waterway reported that a big fleet of transports had passed through the Sea of Marmora, making it apparent that the Turkish army was being reinforced. They also reported that the Turks were pushing vigorous preparations to defend Gallipoli Straits to the last. New hidden batteries are being planted on both sides of the waterway at that Gallipoli Strait lies opposite Gallipoli, at the point where the Dardanelles enters the Sea of Marmora. The strait is marked by treacherous currents and ledges of rocks. There are no lighthouses, one upon each side of the strait.

Advices from Salonika make no mention of the presence of Italian warships in the Aegean sea, and doubt is cast upon the reports of yesterday that an Italian squadron had sailed to join the Anglo-French fleet.

It is reported from Tenedos that some of the guns upon the war fleet had been silenced by projectiles from the land batteries. A spectacular feature of the battle was the fighting between two aeroplanes from the fleet and Turkish shore batteries. The aviators, having located the position of certain guns between Frenkui and the ruins of Dardanus in daylight, flew over the Turkish position during the night and dropped bombs. The Turks replied with both small arms and heavy guns. The glare could be seen for many miles, but despite the severity of the fire the aviators escaped.

Naval experts attach importance to the fact that the great British superdreadnought Queen Elizabeth has begun to bombard the inner Turkish forts with fire from her 15-inch guns.

Another interesting and important feature of Athens dispatches was the report that Vice Admiral Sackville Hamilton Carden, the commander-in-chief of the allied fleet, had taken his flagship into the Dardanelles and personally directed operations from a point opposite the ruins of Dardanus. That Rear Admiral Guepratte, commander of the French ships in the fleet had entered the Dardanelles was shown by Athens advices to the effect that he had a narrow escape from death when a shell exploded on the battleship Suffren.

Information that the Turkish fire from the batteries along the Dardanelles Narrows was becoming weaker was taken here as an indication that the Turks were running short of ammunition and were saving their supply.

GERMANS PREPARING TO CUT THEIR WAY THROUGH TO CALAIS

AMSTERDAM, March 11.—Strong precautions are being taken by the German military authorities to prevent any attempt of the British to force a landing upon the Belgian coast. Heavy German reinforcements are arriving at Bruges, and this leads to the belief that the invaders are getting ready for another great effort to cut their way through towards Calais.

A dispatch from Sluis says the garrisons all along the North Sea coast are being strengthened. The garrison at Knocke has been increased to 2,000 men, and that of Heist has been augmented from 4,000 to 5,000 men. Troops are being billeted in private houses.

Danes Hold Up Cargo of Automatic Guns

COPENHAGEN, March 11.—Official announcement was made today that the British government had refused to allow shipment of a cargo of automatic guns on the steamship Blenda, owing to unsatisfactory guarantee as to their ultimate destination.

40 BOMBARDMENTS OF ARMENTIERES

PARIS, March 11.—More than forty separate bombardments have been directed against the French town of Armentieres by the German artillery which lies about six miles away. The town is deserted, except for French and British soldiers and a handful of townspeople, whose situation is so desperate that death is more welcome than life. The streets are full of debris and torn by shellfire. The houses that were not wrecked by projectiles have been burned.

Turks Claim Advance Against the British

CONSTANTINOPLE, via Berlin and Amsterdam, March 11.—Following up their victory over British forces in Mesopotamia, the Turkish troops in that region are pressing southward rapidly in pursuit of the English troops, it was announced at the War Office today.

An official statement says that the Ottoman soldiers have already occupied a Persian town on the Karun River, about ninety miles north of the Persian Gulf and in the British sphere of influence. This has also been occupied.

Servians Nickname Lipton "Uncle Tom"

LONDON, March 11.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Nish forwards an account of the enthusiastic reception accorded to Sir Thomas Lipton by the Servian soldiers at Belgrade affectionately nicknamed him "Tchika Toma," meaning "Uncle Tom," and in many ways expressed their gratitude for bringing medical aid and nurses to them.

British Collier Is Blown Up, Report

LONDON, March 11.—A wireless dispatch from Berlin says a report has been received from Rotterdam that the British collier Beethoven, bound from Newcastle for Gibraltar, has been sunk by either a torpedo or a mine. Two of the crew are said to have been drowned. The others were saved.

Circus Elephants Put to Work in War

LONDON, March 11.—A Copenhagen dispatch to the Daily Mail says Germany has mobilized the elephants in Hagenbeck's menagerie and has sent them to Valenciennes for work in heavy hauling.

BRITISH CAPTURE GERMAN TRENCHES; ADVANCE OVER MILE

PARIS, March 11.—An official communique issued by the French War Office this afternoon states that the British troops in the Lalluaux region have captured nearly a mile and a half of German trenches before Neuve Chapelle, taken that town and advanced more than a mile beyond its limits.

The text of the communique follows:

"The English attack of yesterday captured 2,000 meters of trenches before Neuve Chapelle and the village itself, then progressed in the direction of Aubers, the road on Moulin du Pietre and in a southeasterly direction as far as the north limits of the forest of Bies, that is to say, about two kilometers beyond Neuve Chapelle. The German artillery is being little used.

"On the rest of the front there is nothing to report in addition to the communique of last evening."

1,250,000 ENGAGED IN THREE GREAT BATTLES IN EAST

PETROGRAD, March 11.—With 1,250,000 Russian and Austro-German troops engaged in three great battles, the struggle in the Eastern theatre of war is entering upon a new phase. In this, according to the Petrograd War Office, the Russians will hold the master hand because of their unequalled ability to reinforce their army.

The scenes of the three battles are:

1—In northern Poland, along a front running from Mlawa to the Narew and Bobr rivers. The Russians and Germans have 500,000 men in this conflict. Hard fighting is in progress along the north banks of the two Rivers where the Russians are striving to drive back the Germans in order to lift the siege of Osowiec.

2—In western Poland, between the Rawka and Pilica rivers. In this region there are 420,000 Austro-Germans and Russians engaged. The Teutonic troops are making desperate efforts to cut through the Russian lines and reach the Vistula River between Czersk and Mniszew. At that point the shores of the river are available for the building of pontoon bridges which would permit the Germans to cross and cut the Warsaw-Ivangorod railroad. The fighting in this district goes on night and day. Neither of the opposing forces has yet been able to gain any appreciable advantage.

3—In southwestern Poland and western Galicia, where 200,000 Austrians and Russians are contesting along the Nida and Dunajec rivers. The Austrians have made some gains in this battle in which they are attempting to reach Tarnow and at the same time drive a wedge into the Russians' line south of the Pilica River which would compel the retirement of Grand Duke Nicholas' troops there and deprive the Russians north of the Pilica of all protection on their left flank. Blizzards in the Carpathian mountains have caused a halt in the operations there at the moment when the Russians had their new offensive well under way.

DENY RUSSIANS HAVE PIERCED THE GERMAN LINES IN POLAND

BERLIN, March 11. (By wireless)—The announcement made in Petrograd that the Russians have broken through the German lines at Augustowo, Poland, is denied in the official report of the German general staff issued this afternoon. The report follows:

"An English aviator threw bombs upon Menin yesterday. Only one of these was successful and this killed seven Belgians and wounded ten.

"English troops yesterday attacked the German positions near Neuve Chapelle. They entered the village in some places. The engagement still continues. An English advance near Givenchy was repulsed.

"In Champagne two French attacks against a corner of the forest east of Souain which the French lost day before yesterday were both repulsed. The enemy's losses wereheavy. "Fighting for Reichacker Kopf in the Vosges was renewed yesterday.

"In the eastern theatre of war 600 Russians were captured west of Serejs (west of the Niemen River). Three guns and two machine guns were taken by our troops. A new Russian attempt to break through the German lines south of Augustowo has ended with the annihilation of the Russian troops used there.

"In an engagement northwest of Ostrolenka, the Germans were victorious. Six Russian officers and 200 men were taken prisoners. Eight machine guns were captured.

"German attacks north and northwest of Przasynasz made further progress. In an engagement northwest of ove Miasto, 1,669 more Russians were captured."

That etal number of Russians captured, according to the official report, was 2,166.

U. S. Warships to Keep N. Y. Neutral

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels today announced that two torpedo boat destroyers, the McDougal and Stockton, had been ordered to proceed from Cuba to New York. The Secretary stated that these vessels were going to New York to assist the naval yacht Dolphin in preserving strict neutrality on the part of shipping there.

THREE ALARMS AT SOUTH END FIRE

Sparks from a fire in the 4½-story wood building Nos. 682-686 Harrison avenue, corner of East Canton street, South End, caused the collapse of the roof and top floor and created excitement among many families in the neighborhood when flying sparks ignited the roofs of several buildings. The police estimate the damage at $20,000. Three alarms were sounded.

The building is occupied by C. H. Bucci & Company, sign painters. The oils and paint made good fuel for the flames, whose strength was increased by a high wind, and tongues of fire shot high into the air.

The brick stable of Joseph McCabe on East Canton street is next to the building burned and all the horses in it were led out.

Across East Canton street, on Harrison avenue, is the brush factory of John L. Whiting & Son Company, and on the other side is a small wooden structure, occupied partly as a dwelling and partly as a garage for the auto patrol of Station 5. The dwellers were not driven from here, however.

Sparks, carried by the wind, landed on the roof of Nos. 672 and 676 Harrison avenue, driving from the former place William Barry and his wife and from the latter Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pettigrew. Chemical lines quickly put out the fires.

The case of Fred F. Walker, deposed Commissioner of Animal Industry, cannot be reopened by the Executive Council. Attorney-General Attwill put a quietus upon the Walker case in an opinion submitted to the Council.

Patrolman Beaten by Burglar Better

Patrolman Andrew J. Hurley, who was beaten Monday night in attempting to arrest burglars in an apartment at Allston, one of whom he shot, is much better. James Glennon, who was shot through the abdomen, has an even chance to recover. Hurley says when it became a question of saving his life he pulled out his revolver and fired the shot.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF—25-CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the quickest, surest dandruff cure known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Just a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp. For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all good druggists.—Advertisement.

STATE RESTS WITH QUESTION OF THAW'S SANITY BARRED

Justice Page Sustains Objection to Testimony Bearing on Mental State of Prisoner.

NEW YORK, March 11.—Harry K. Thaw's lawyers today mapped out new plans to prevent the return of the slayer of Stanford White to Matteawan. They fear that the conspiracy indictment, under which Thaw is now being tried, will be dismissed by Justice Page after the State finishes introducing its evidence and that the defendant will be rushed back to the asylum from which he escaped in August, 1913.

The defence does not want the conspiracy charge dismissed. It wants the question of Thaw's sanity placed before the jury in the present case. It believes that in this way Thaw will eventually win the freedom for which he has been fighting ever since he was sent to Matteawan.

If the conspiracy indictment is dismissed and the State attempts to rush Thaw back to Matteawan the defence will sue out a writ of habeas corpus and ultimately try to have Thaw's sanity decided.

Thaw was much improved today, although still suffering from the severe cold which yesterday caused his attorney to unsuccessfully try and have him removed to Bellevue.

THAW SAYS HE'S SANE.

"I am sane and had a perfect right to leave the asylum by whatever means I desired," will be the plea of Thaw when he takes the witness stand in his own defence.

Sole and complete responsibility for his escape will be accepted by the defendant, who, to the extent of his power, will absolve from blame the five men jointly indicted with him. He will explain that he acted under advice, and in the exercise of his rights as a sane man, accepted the offer of assistance made to him by his associates on trial.

"I am a sane man now," Thaw will assert, and his presence on the witness stand will be at once a challenge to the government to prove otherwise.

This bold move has been definitely decided upon by Thaw's counsel. At one stroke they will seek to establish his sanity and clear him from the criminal charge hanging over him so that, with a verdict of "not guilty" from the jury, a formal order from a Supreme Court justice alone will be needed to make him a free man.

TO PROVE HIS SANITY.

John B. Stanchfield, chief counsel for Thaw, said, following the announcement that the State's case will close some time this week:

"Certainly we shall put Mr. Thaw on the stand. He probably will be our first witness. And when we call our witnesses we shall dwell principally on the point of his sanity at the time of his departure from Matteawan and now. His intention was to get out because he was sane, and we shall ask the jury to say in their verdict that he was and is sane."

The big battle, transcending the mere question of a conspiracy and going directly at the question of Thaw's sanity, therefore, will be precipitated today. Deputy Attorney General Kennedy said last night that he was prepared for it. He said:

"To the extent that the testimony regarding Thaw's sanity is introduced to show whether under the law he knew the nature and quality of his act, and that the act was wrong, we shall not object. Beyond that the defense will not be permitted to go without a fight. Thaw's sanity beyond that point is not an issue in this case."

But two obstacles may be encountered to prevent Thaw's appearance on the stand. One is the improbable event of a ruling by Justice Page dismissing the conspiracy indictment on the ground that the State has not made out a case.

Abraham Levy, in behalf of the five co-defendants, will make this motion today and will fight hard for it. Stanchfield will not oppose in behalf of Thaw, but he makes no secret of the fact that he wants the case to go to the jury.

"I will not press hard for a dismissal," said he with a smile. "I want it to go to the jury. We want Thaw to tell his story and demonstrate for himself that he is sane."

Thaw is in bad physical condition. He is suffering from rheumatism, brought on, the jail physician said, by the drafts in his cell.

While he sat in court listening to the State's witnesses tracing his flight from Matteawan to New Hampshire, he had a shawl thrown over one shoulder and the neck of a heavy sweater turned up to his ears.

Nearly all the witnesses who testified were employes of the Matteawan Hospital, or persons who had seen one or both of the automobiles in which the escape was effected.

Each of the employes was asked questions designed to indicate to the jury that Thaw was sane at the time of his escape. These witnesses were unanimous in agreeing that Thaw's personal appearance was always neat, that his conduct was exemplary and that he occupied his spare moments by reading textbooks on various subjects and current fiction.

Many of the witnesses who saw the machines during the flight identified one or more of Thaw's codefendants as the men whom they had seen in them.

Acute Articular Rheumatism

Relieved By Anti-Kamnia Tablets.

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. H. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that Anti-kamnia Tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed in headache, neuralgia and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or, rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and, furthermore to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-producing mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

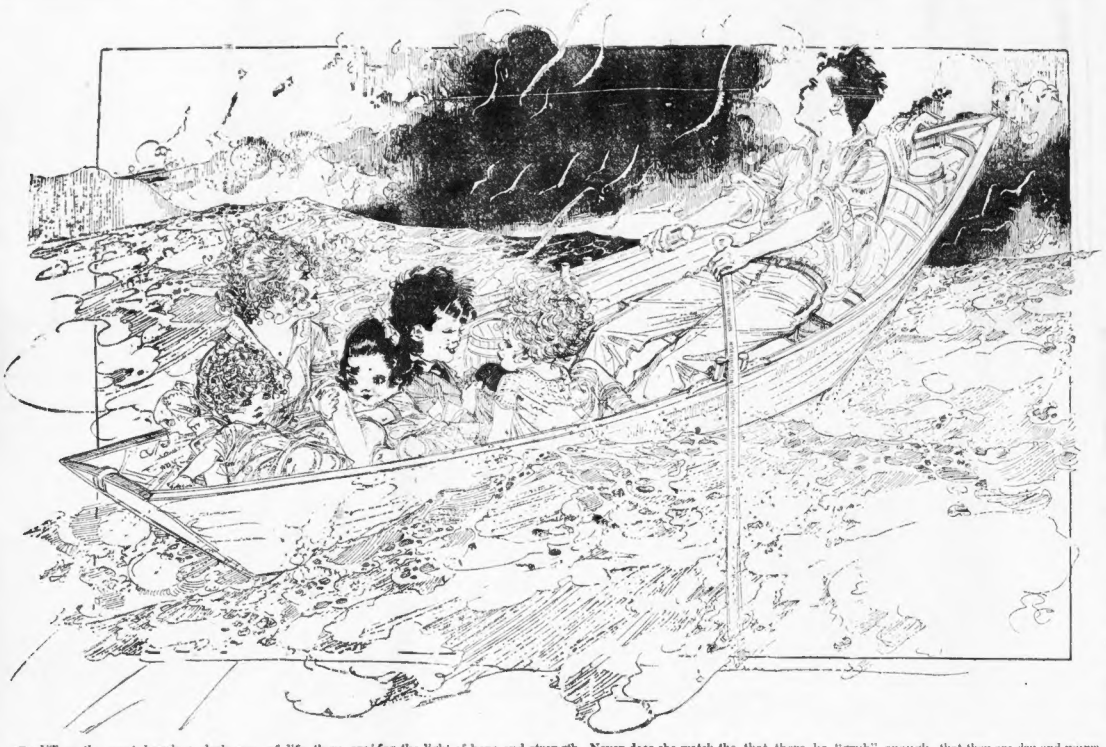
A Well-Known Pilot

The Father and His Little "Ship-of-State"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1910, by International News Service.



OUT on the great, heaving, dark seas of life there are myriads of these tiny boats lifting and falling, mounting and dropping, crawling slowly over the wastes to some port; hopeful little shells that must be madly bailed sometimes to keep them on top; these little "ships of State." In the stern the little mother is look-out, but most always her intent eyes are fastened on and searching the face of the Pilot, searching for his heart that she knows he wears there for her to see, searching for signs of weariness and despair, for the light of hope and strength. Never does she watch the clouds, but only his face. There can she help the most. Of course, the kiddies that sometimes crowd the boat almost to sinking and rock it too, foolishly, as they grow up; they laugh and snuggle and never see the green deep water that slaps along side only to take joy in it; they never lift their eyes to the black, thunderous skies that sometimes grow and grow until there are only peek-holes of sunlight left. And on the soul of the Pilot sits the fate of all this snug boatload, that there be "grub" enough, that they are dry and warm, that they ultimately reach the Wonder-Port that is dreaming for them, that his little "institution" his home swim smooth and safely. And that means PULL and hope and sweat and dream and keep a sharp lookout ahead; above all, never lay down the oars even when his heart swims and his heart is like death in his breast. There are so many of these brave, gallant pilots bent to the oars that folks think too little of them.—NELL BRINKLEY.

Their Married Life

A Mysterious Letter Which Comes to the House for Warren Sets Helen Cogitating.

Copyright, 1910, by International News Service.

"WHAT time is it, Nora?" called Helen from the bedroom where she was busy picking up her clothes that she had flung down in a heap the night before. She and Warren had been out to the theatre with Bob and Louise. As Bob laughingly insisted, he had broken his New Year's resolution. They had all laughed at him, for the idea was ridiculous. When they had made out their New Year's resolutions Bob had resolved not to be jealous of his wife, and they had all poked fun at him at the time. But he had insisted that it was a perfectly good resolution, and they had allowed it to stay.

Now he insisted that he had broken it, and refused to say when. Helen secretly thought that either she or Warren were far more guilty than Bob. There had been plenty of times when she had been foolishly worried, and as for Warren, he was impatient most of the time.

"I don't think it's fair, Louise," Helen had remonstrated when Bob had announced the fact of his broken resolution a week ago.

"Fair, of course, it's fair," Bob had insisted.

Helen looked at Louise deprecatingly.

Louise had done nothing but giggle ever since the discussion had started, now she straightened her face and turned to Helen apologetically.

"Don't take it so seriously, dear," she had said with a smile. "If Bob insists, why, let him pay the penalty."

"Certainly, let him pay if he has broken his resolution," Warren seconded.

"But, dear," Helen had remonstrated, "it isn't fair. Why, Bob hasn't broken it nearly as much as we have."

"Speak for yourself," Warren had retorted reddening.

"Anyway," put in Louise, "Bob and I have been dying to do something, and as long ago as Bob broke his resolution it's up to me to treat to a dinner."

A GRAND PARTY PLANNED BY THE REPENTANT BOB

"I forgot that," said Bob sheepishly. "That lets you in for some of it, doesn't it, Louise?"

"I don't mind, dear," said Louise, laughing again at his expression, "we'll have a grand party."

And so it had been settled that way, and Helen and Warren had gone to dinner at Louise's apartment the evening before and all four had gone to the theatre afterward. The play had been a comedy, and after they had come out Warren had taken them all to supper, so it had been late when they turned home. Helen had been too tired to care where her things had fallen, and after taking a bath, she had crept into bed and fallen asleep as soon as her head had touched the pillow.

This morning she had not waked up when Warren got up, and had been in such a hurry to get in and her coffee with him, that she had left the room in a terrible state. She smiled to herself as she picked one of Warren's socks off his chiffonier, and then the idea had occurred to her to ask Nora about the mail. Nora had replied that it was a quarter of nine and Helen had wound her little white ivory clock and set it. "Isn't the mail late, Nora?" she called again as she heard Nora still busy in the dining room.

"Sometimes he doesn't get here till after this, ma'am," Nora replied, coming to the door. "Shall I help you with that, Mrs. Curtis?"

Helen, with a sudden whim, had pulled out the best spread, a very handsome affair of cluny, and was proceeding to dress up the room. Nora looked a little bit surprised.

"Is anyone coming, ma'am?" she questioned, as she smoothed and patted a pillow and put it into place.

"No, Nora, just ourselves," said Helen, crossing to the closet. "There's the mail now, see if there's anything for me."

NORA RETURNS WITH TWO LETTERS—ONE FROM HOME

Nora went out of the room and returned a moment later with two letters. Helen, for some unaccountable reason, had had a presentiment that she would receive something in the mail that morning. Her letter from home had been late that week and she was confident that a letter from her mother would be there if nothing else.

The letter from home she opened eagerly and began to devour all the homely little incidents that held so much interest for her. Her father had a cold and had been in the house for two days. He was better now, and had gone out to see a few of his patients for the first time that morning. There were two new houses in the neighborhood, very pretty ones of stucco, and a new family had moved into the pretty red house on the corner.

Helen looked up with a smile on her lips as she finally put the letter down. She was relieved to hear that nothing was the matter at home and she was about to get up and go about the rest of her work when the other letter dropped to the floor as she stood up. She stooped to pick it up and noticed for the first time that it was not for herself but for Warren. That was strange, for Warren very seldom received letters at home. Those that did come were advertisements and circulars, and she could see from the outside of this that it was a personal letter.

The postmark was blurred, but she finally made out the fact that it came from a place called Hindale, N. J. The paper was white and heavy, and the writing was decidedly a woman's and, thought Helen as she examined it closely, that of a woman of character. She looked at it rather enviously. Her own handwriting was not individual. Warren had often teased her on the subject, for she wrote an easily distinguished vertical hand and this writing, although easily read, was full of character.

Helen was plainly curious. It did not occur to her to be jealous, but she was frankly eager to know who had written to Warren. Warren was the last person in the world to carry on a clandestine affair with any one, and yet, she caught at the idea presented itself, why was he? Just because he had never given her cause for uneasiness was no reason why he never would. And then for the first time she had a doubt in her heart.

Try as she would to put the thought from her, during the morning until the letter which she had placed on the table in the living room seemed a veritable magnet attracting her toward it until she seemed to have no will of her own left to her. Then with a feeling of shame she turned away and went into her own room and dressed. She was not right to be jealous of Warren. And if she had, wasn't it lowering her own ideal to admit such a thing.

No doubt there was of no consequence at all and she and Warren would laugh over it together. She would show all about it when he returned at night, or, better still, she could run down to his office in the afternoon. There was no need of worrying about it anyway until she knew.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

This famous remedy, the medicinal properties of which is derived from native roots and herbs, has for nearly forty years proved to be a most valuable specific for woman's ills. Why don't you try it?

A Course in Reading

Beatrice Fairfax Answers Many Correspondents

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MANY of my correspondents have been asking me recently to suggest a course of reading. I am taking this means of answering all of them.

In our modern life nothing is more important than a knowledge of current events. "The world do move," and however much one knows of classic lore, if one is not acquainted with the events of one's own day one is vastly ignorant. So first, to all my young friends, I suggest the reading of one or two good newspapers each day. In the editorial column will be found stimulating opinion and information, and on the news sheets an up-to-date calendar of events. To this add either a good weekly or monthly magazine which specializes in reviewing topics of the times.

But when your reading has been kept up to date you will find, if you observe intelligently, all sorts of references and suggestions which presuppose a certain amount of knowledge of history, science and literature. And it is along the three lines of history, science and literature that I would suggest reading.

But before I begin I want to say once again what I have so often suggested to correspondents. After you have decided the lines along which you want to read, take your problem to the nearest library station. It is part of the duty, and should be the pleasure, of the librarian in charge to help you with definite suggestions.

And now for brief suggestions as to reading along the three named lines of which I have spoken.

First of all, make up your mind in which your greatest interest lies—the story of the world's progress, the examination of its actual work or the enjoyment of its great field of imaginative lore. Read very thoroughly along the line which interests you most, but do not neglect the other two.

VISIT THE LIBRARIES

Since the compass of a book is all too small for an exhaustive treatment of what to read, I can here suggest only the merest outlines of reading.

First, history: If your interest in reading lies along this line, you enter a vast and wonderful field. In it lie the histories of all the nations and peoples of the earth; biographies and autobiographies of the great, accounts of inventions, artistic discoveries and all the great movements of life.

Begin with the biblical history of Palestine, Judea and Egypt. For any knowledge of history that excludes the Bible omits the greatest and most formative period of life. Next read the classic histories of Greece and Rome.

Next obtain some general history of Europe and study the movements and migrations of the great earth families.

Anywhere along the line of this reading it is easy to stop and specialize off into some branch which one finds particularly interesting.

The study of literature as pursued in colleges generally begins with "English Literature from the Beginning of the Norman Conquest." This begins by showing the relation of early Britain to English literature, deals next with the heathen poetry of the old English and goes on to the poem of Beowulf, which is based on heroic deeds done back in the 500s.

The man or woman who means seriously to go in for good reading in our own language should work their way up with some knowledge of Caedmon, Bede, the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, the Legends of King Arthur and the Round Table, of Chaucer and all the early English before Shakespeare's time, including some such simple bits of knowledge as that Edmund Spenser wrote the "Faery Queen," that Christopher Marlowe is the author of "Dr. Faustus" and that people like Michael Drayton and Ben Jonson lived. It is not necessary to go deeply into any such dry thing as the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, but, at least, you want to know about them.

Finally, let us consider reading along scientific lines. Here again we have a tremendous field. Perhaps you want to read the biographies of the great scientific discoverers. Do not begin with a man of your own day time—an Edison. Go far back into the days when science was actually confused with witchcraft and magic. Then you can better understand our own "wizard."

Is your interest in the science of mental states—psychology? Do you care most for biology, or astronomy, or chemistry, or physics? Here is a vast field in which numberless individuals and sciences and schools of thought stand out.

THE STUDY OF MANKIND

Darwin and Huxley are generally suggested to all those who hold that "the proper study of mankind is man." This class of reading is likely to suggest itself to you only after you have schooled yourself in a preliminary one. And by the time you get to it you will know whether you want to read the philosophy of Schopenhauer, the science in which Galileo was a pioneer, or one of the other great "ologies."

Begin with history. Develop yourself along some preferred line of travel, adventure, discovery or the particular biography of a character which appeals to you.

From this grow naturally into literature (which is the history and development of the written word.)

Read along definite lines. Perhaps a great historian like a Macaulay would appeal to you; perhaps Taine or Green or Symonds' story of the great Renaissance movement.

All I can do here is give general directions. Decide on your own trend of thought. Go to the public libraries for your definite beginnings and you will find that your own tendencies and interests will direct you in the mapping out of an actual "course of reading."

The New Home Treatment for Ugly, Hairy Growths

(Rhodite Secrets)

Here is a simple, yet very effective, method for removing hair and fuzz from the face, neck and arms: Cover the objectionable hairs with a paste made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. Leave this on for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. No pain or inconvenience attends this treatment, but results will be certain if you are sure to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

CABOT'S NEPHEW ON THE STAND AGAIN IN FAMOUS WILL CONTEST

George E. Cabot, nephew of the late Louis Cabot, and a beneficiary under the Cabot will, which named him an executor, resumed the stand today in the contest of the will. He answered many questions with, "I do not remember," and "I don't remember."

The witness was questioned by Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for Mrs. Vernon Briggs, daughter of Louis Cabot, and contestant of her father's will.

Q.—How long were you in Mr. Gray's office during the interview held there November 17, 1911? A.—About ten minutes.

Q.—Can you tell us what was said? A.—Well, Mr. Cabot spoke of making his will. He alluded to his personal effects.

Q.—Well, can't you tell us what he said in his own words? A.—I don't remember. I can only give you the substance. He spoke of owning farms in Brookline and Dublin and also some property in Canada. Mr. Gray advised hi nto leave these effects to his executors. He said it was usual practice in drawing wills. He had found it, he said, a very satisfactory method. Beyond this, I have no clear recollection of what was said. Mr. Cabot was still in the office when I left.

Q.—When did you next see Mr. Cabot? A.—A day or two later.

Q.—You were present at a second interview with Mr. Gray and Mr. Cabot? A.—Yes, sir.

MENTIONED HIS DAUGHTERS.

Q.—Can you tell us what was said at this interview? A.—I don't remember all that was said. Mr. Cabot, I remember, sat in one corner of the room. He produced a piece of paper from his pocket and read something from it. He mentioned his daughters. I think he also spoke of leaving the jewelry to Janet. My best recollection of that interview is that Mr. Cabot also spoke about some special bequests.

Q.—Well, can't you tell us anything he read from it about his daughters? A.—I think he read something like this: "I make no provisions for my daughters, as they are amply provided for."

Q.—Did he ever tell you how they were provided for? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—What did Mr. Gray say when Mr. Cabot read that statement about his daughters being amply provided for? A.—I don't remember.

After telling what he remembered about Cabot reading a provision for Janet Hartol, Mr. Cabot testified to the reading of a clause concerning the daughters. In answer to another question, witness said:

"My best recollection is that Mr. Cabot wanted to make certain bequests. My best recollection is that these bequests were mentioned to Mr. Gray. What they were I do not remember."

MEMORANDUM OF BEQUESTS.

Attorney Whipple called Mr. Cabot's attention to a piece of paper on which were written bequests. This paper was found among the witness' papers. Attorney Whipple read the paper:

"To E. F. Woodward, if with me time of my death, $6,000

"To Agnes O. Vincent $1,500 if with me at time of my death.

"To W. S. Tuttle of Keene, N. H., $2,500, a house and land adjoining in Stoddard, which I bought of his mother.

"To H. B. Bigelow, all my books of travel, science and natural history, excepting one book as hereinafter explained, and any of my guns and rifles which he may select.

"To Augustus Hemenway, a large picture by Carot, which belonged to his mother.

"To H. B. Cabot, the blue and gold jar now standing in the hall at Brookline, and which belonged to his Grandmother Cabot; also the Dutch chair, which also belonged to his grandmother.

Lawrence License Hearing Resumed

The License Board hearing at Lawrence was resumed today with Chairman John W. Duffy on the witness stand. Mayor Kane has asked for the resignations of Commissioners John W. Duffy and Simeon A. Woodbury. Refusals to resign on their part leads to the hearing on charges. Mayor Kane is presiding at the hearing.

Chairman Duffy occupied the stand the entire morning. His testimony was entirely devoted to readings of records of the License Board. He endeavored to show the care that the board used in granting licenses. He read of investigations made by himself and Woodbury before granting licenses and before taking a final vote. The records went back to the years of 1913 and 1914. A large crowd attended the hearing.

Finland Warmly Welcomes Czar

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 10, via Petrograd March 11.—Emperor Nicholas arrived here from Petrograd today and was given an enthusiastic greeting. The city is decorated gaily in honor of the imperial visitor and the school children have been given a holiday. During the morning the Emperor visited the Orthodox Cathedral and the Protestant Cathedral. In the afternoon he inspected the Russian warships in the vicinity of the fortress of Sveaborg.

Fails to Identify Man for Assault

Joseph Deering, nineteen, of Border street, charged with assault and battery upon Lawrence James, also of Border street, was discharged today in East Boston Court, owing to the failure of James, to identify Deering as his assailant.

James, on December 14, 1914, shot and killed Thomas Forry, while employed as watchman on the wharf of a cold storage plant on Border street. Last Saturday while on his way home, according to the police, James was set upon by a gang on Border street and was badly beaten.

HARVARD AND TECH NEAR SHOW CLASH

Harvard and Technology almost came to a clash during the rehearsals of "Cyrano de Bergerac," which Edward Vroom will produce this afternoon at the Colonial Theatre for the Belgian relief and unemployment committee funds.

In the big fight scene, for which Harvard and Tech fencing stars have volunteered, the rapiers are supposed to defeat the Spanish. The stage manager, failing to realize the delicacy of the situation, appointed the Harvard men as Spaniards and the Tech men as Gascons. Captain Nichols of the Harvard fencing squad sought a copy of "Cyrano" and discovered Harvard was doomed to be ingloriously defeated if she took the part of the Castilians.

Thereupon a hasty conference was called and Mr. Vroom solved the difficulty by putting Harvard and Tech men on both sides. Mr. Vroom will play Cyrano.

Merry Gathering of Wolf's Employes

Quite a merry gathering from the men's departments of Wolf's were entertained last evening at a supper at the Crawford House and theatre afterwards. Mr. Louis N. Daum was the host. The following men assembled: Samuel Cohen, Ben Davis, Robert Reinhart, William Wherty, Jack Wherty, Edelle Latterner, Jack Moss, M. Sulkis and Harry Greenberg. Many novel entertaining features were introduced.

SAW MRS. ANGLE ON DEATH NIGHT

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., March 11.—Apparently completely recovered from the attack of nervousness with which she was affected during the closing session yesterday, Mrs. Helen M. Angle, the Stamford divorcee, took an active part in the proceedings here this afternoon at the resumption of her trial for causing the death of Waldo F. Ballou, a politician.

The first witness today was H. Stanley Finch, a Stamford lawyer. He is president of the corporation owning the Rippowam building and was called by Prosecutor Cummings to learn how many persons had the keys to the inner doors of the building.

Finch declared that many persons had keys to the premises to see Mrs. Angle had her apartments and most anybody could obtain entrance to the place with little difficulty.

The report that Mrs. Angle would be put on the stand today brought a large number of women to the court-house this morning. Mr. Klein, however, declared that Mrs. Angle would not be put on the stand today.

Dennis Reardon, driver of the combination patrol wagon and ambulance for the Stamford police department, was called and told of being summoned to the Rippowam Building and of finding Ballou on the sidewalk. He also told of finding places inside the building where attempt had been made to wipe up blood.

Charles P. Beck, a member of the Stamford City Council, who was in the Elks' Club, opposite the Rippowam Building on the night Mr. Ballou was hurt, gave evidence against Mrs. Angle when he swore that when he arrived with the police at the building that night and was trying to gain admission to the place Mrs. Angle leaned cautiously out of the window of her apartment and observed them for some time until they looked up and saw her. She then drew back into the room.

"Are you sure it was Mrs. Angle at the window?" the witness was asked.

"Yes; I have known her for years and could not make a mistake."

John Barrett, a Stamford taxicab driver who accompanied Councilman Beck to the Rippowam Building, was the next witness and his story was practically a repetition of Beck's narrative.

CATHOLICS IN BAY STATE 4TH IN U. S.

Massachusetts stands fourth in the list of States having the largest Catholic population, with 1,332,000 of the 16,269,310 Catholics in the United States, according to the figures made public today by P. J. Kennedy & Sons of New York, publishers of the "Official Catholic Directory." New York State leads the list with 2,585,858. Pennsylvania, with 1,756,761, and Illinois, with 1,473,379, also rank Massachusetts.

In proportion of Catholic to other population, Massachusetts leads the other three States, with a ratio of about one in three, to Illinois one in about five, New York one in about four and Pennsylvania one in about four.

FAIRFIELD CASE JURY DISAGREES

The jury which for a week has been hearing evidence in the suit for $125,000 brought by Gertrude J. Fitzpatrick against the estate of the late James M. Fairfield, today reported to Judge Sanderson that it was impossible for them to reach a verdict.

The jury had been out since 2:30 yesterday afternoon and reported at 10:40 this morning. This was the second trial of the case, the previous trial likewise resulting in a disagreement.

It was reported that the jury stood seven to five in favor of the plaintiff.

Attorney John Jackson Walsh, counsel for Miss Fitzpatrick, said after the jury had reported:

"I intend to retry this case till this woman, conceded by the defendants to be a woman of the highest character, is awarded her substantial rights. She has never been adverse to an adjustment, but no reasonable offer was ever made. I believe the heirs themselves are ashamed to treat her fairly. For they best know how unlimited have been her sacrifices for them."

"TIZ" FOR TIRED AND SORE FEET

"TIZ" for puffed-up, burning, aching, calloused feet and corns.

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—for so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "TIZ" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"TIZ" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "TIZ" instantly stops pain in corns, calluses and bunions. "TIZ" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture. For sale by Ryker-Jaynes and all good Druggists.

DEDICATE NEW CITY CLUBHOUSE

Today is Dedication Day at the City Club's new clubhouse.

The new structure was begun July 24, 1913, when President Samuel J. Elder turned the first shovelful of earth, and was completed early this year. The club moved in about February 10, serving the last supper in the old quarters on February 12 and the first in the new structure the following morning.

The formal opening of the new building was originally set for February 25. Confusion arose as to whether the large assembly hall complies with the building laws, and it is possible a legislative enactment may yet be passed in this matter.

The dedication exercises today were confined to members. A reception to invited guests was held at noon. A luncheon, reception in the evening, a dinner and the dedication exercises in the large banquet room on the fourth floor complete today's program.

President Frederick P. Fish presided at the luncheon. President Fish and the board of governors will form a receiving line at the reception at 6 o'clock; and after the dinner he will preside at the dedicatory exercises.

The dedication exercises will include addresses by Senator Weeks, Governor Walsh, Mayor Curley, James W. Rollins, first vice-president and chairman of the building committee; W. A. Flizzerald, second vice-president and chairman of the executive committee, and James J. Storrow and Edward A. Filene of the club finance committee.

A further feature of the exercises will be the reading of a dedicatory poem by John Kendrick Bangs. The Boston Quintette will render several numbers.

'Siegfried' Will Be Produced June 4

The production of Wagner's "Siegfried" in the Harvard Stadium has been put back a day and will now be given on June 4. Tests of the acoustics of the Stadium have been made and pronounced very satisfactory. Two sounding boards will be erected.

Mr. Hertz, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera company, will spend a week at the Stadium superintending the final preparation.

Dog's Board Cost Claudia Wheeler $45

Victor in Divorce Case Had Fierce Pet

Victor in New York Divorce Case Had Big Wolfhound in Hotel.

Friends in Boston and New York of Mrs. Claudia Carlstedt Wheeler, whose husband, Albert Gallatin Wheeler, Jr., a wealthy Manhattan broker, has just been denied a suit for divorce, wondered today if the fair Claudia will now try to get back Rinbelh, the enormous Russian wolfhound which she gave away when the divorce suit was pending. This "pet" was a gift to Mrs.

Claudia Carlstedt Wheeler, whose husband has lost suit to divorce her.

Wheeler from a friend in London, while Mrs. Wheeler was helping Belgian refugees and wounded soldiers. She brought Elizabeth back to New York with her and gave the porters at the Hotel MacAlpin palpitations of the heart when she reluctantly entrusted the long-toothed wolfhound to their nervous care.

Mrs. Wheeler entered the hotel, trailing Elizabeth at the end of a leash. Elizabeth leered at the "bellhops" who gave her lots of room.

"I want a suite and a room for my dog," said Mrs. Wheeler.

"I am sorry, Madame," said the clerk, "but you cannot have that dog in your room."

"Why, how annoying," said Mrs. Wheeler. "Elizabeth is a prize Russian wolfhound. She has been ill aboard ship. I wish to nurse her back to health. Poor Elizabeth."

"Woof, woof," boomed the "poor" doggie, like a Krupp gun.

"Must ums darling go with a porter, who might abuse her," said Elizabeth's mistress soothingly.

EXPENSIVE APPETITE.

"Excuse me, Madame," said the head porter, earnestly, "but I wouldn't think of abusing your doggie. And I am sure all the porters will treat her very respectfully."

Elizabeth smiled confidently at the head porter, showing rows of fangs two inches long. The head porter led "doggie" away gingerly.

A week later Mrs. Wheeler received Elizabeth's first board bill. It was $45, for the "poor doggie," preferred porterhouse steak in large portions.

"My goodness!" said Mrs. Wheeler to the head porter, "what shall I do I can't afford that. I must give the dog away. You don't want her for a pet, do you?"

"Oh, no, Madame," said the head porter, "I couldn't keep such a dog."

So Mrs. Wheeler gave Elizabeth away to a friend in New York. She (Mrs. Wheeler—said that, if her husband won his divorce suit, she would be real poor and might have to earn her own living, and she never could afford a pet that ate $45 worth of steak a week, when recovering from a indisposition at that.

But now a jury in New York has decided that Mr. Wheeler is not entitled to a divorce. So, maybe, Mrs. Wheeler will try to regain Elizabeth.

INDIGNANT DENIAL.

Boston, where Mrs. Wheeler has visited often, was particularly interested in the case because the husband's counsel tried to show that she was at Brandon Hall, in Brookline, at the same time that W. Winthrop Greene was there last May.

Mrs. Wheeler and her cousin, Mrs. Edgar F. Bryant of Somerville, were the witnesses who contradicted this charge.

The comely defendant, her eyes flashing, cried out in indignant denial of any misconduct with Greene in Boston or elsewhere.

"No, never," she exclaimed.

The trial was enlivened by Mrs. Wheeler naively displaying her heels. Her patent leather shoes and a modicum of purple hosiery to the jurors, to settle an argument as to her height and the height of her heels.

CARRANZA'S NOTE LESSENS TENSION

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The assurances given by General Venustiano Carranza that his government would do all in its power to protect foreigners in Mexico City and other parts of the republic controlled by him lessended the tension in Washington today over the Mexican situation. The food problem in Mexico City still was causing much concern, however.

Auspicatative advices from diplomats at Mexico City say that the great need is to keep open the communications, particularly between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, and the administration is said much thought to this. Representations already have been made to Carranza on this subject, and he is known to be taking an interest.

The appeal of the Mexican Red Cross for aid from the American Red Cross in relieving food conditions and other suffering also was under consideration. The State Department has suggested the formation of an international committee, including wealthy Mexicans, to raise funds to feed the starving and the question of Red Cross aid is held up pending these negotiations. No more warships appear likely to be sent to Mexican waters pending some further tangible development in the situation.

$3,250,000,000 War Budget for Germany

BERLIN, March 11.—A special committee appointed to consider the war budget of $3,250,000,000 last night, after its presentation by Dr. Karl Helfferich, secretary of the imperial treasury, held a brief session today and then adjourned until tomorrow. The committee includes leaders of all the political parties. It will report favorably upon the budget, which will be adopted when the Reichstag meets again on March 18. While the budget is four times as large as any previous estimate, Berlin financial experts today asserted that the country would be able to bear the enormous burden caused by the war and that Germany's losses would be compensated by indemnities to be paid by Germany's foes at the end of the conflict.

IF BILIOUS, SICK OR CONSTIPATED TAKE CASCARETS

No headache, bad cold, sour stomach or costive bowels by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now. You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will start you right. Then bowels clean, stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

BODY FOUND IN BROOKLYN SEWER

NEW YORK, March 11.—The ablest detectives of the city were rushed to Brooklyn today to solve a murder mystery that developed from the finding of the head and torso of a man in a sewer there.

The head was found in the sewer at Tenth avenue and Forty-fifth street. This resulted in a further search of the sewer and the torso was found a block away.

The head of the murder victim had been mutilated. It was discovered by city workmen and police headquarters was immediately notified. Physicians were soon on the scene and they made a search of the sewers running in four directions. After a half-hour's work the torso was found.

How to Cure Rheumatism

Here is a prescription for rheumatism used all over the United States. Get a package and add to its the stated home remedy: "One ounce of Tarx compound and one ounce syrup of sarsaparilla. Put these two ingredients in half pint of water. Use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time." Put the sarsaparilla in the other and let stand for two hours before adding the Tarx. So it is better to mix at home. The ingredients in any drug store. Genuine Tarx comes in sealed, yellow packages, up to date Pharmaceutical, Dayton, Ohio.

JOYCE BROS. & CO. JOYCE BROS. & CO.

JUST Twenty-Six Years Ago—

FOR 26 YEARS our house has been doing business with the people of New England. From the modest beginning in our little 20x60 STORE our trade has expanded until today we own and operate seven up-to-date, busy, retail Clothing Stores in seven of New England's leading cities and the name of JOYCE BROS. & CO. has taken its place among those of the foremost Clothiers of America. It is but natural that we should expect a continuance of this prosperity, but we know that, in reality, we deserve it only to the extent that we have been and are now giving values, qualities, service and accommodation superior to that found in any competitive establishment. Our policy of a "square deal," FULL VALUE FOR EVERY DOLLAR EXPENDED, and satisfaction to our customers, in every detail, is the foundation upon which our business rests.

NEW, STYLISH SPRING APPAREL for Men, Women, Boys and Girls, in great profusion, is now here ready for your inspection, and represents the best efforts of the leading manufacturers of America. STYLE for STYLE, QUALITY for QUALITY, the VALUES FOUND HERE will compare favorably with the lowest prices quoted anywhere, by anybody, for similar merchandise. Back of this is our unqualified guarantee of perfect satisfaction. Our customers know what this stands for and that we are here "all the time" to protect that guarantee.

OUR CHARGE SYSTEM was established for the convenience of the people and is conducted on modern, progressive, 20th century lines that meet the requirements of the man or woman of moderate means. It is not always convenient to pay spot cash, and the average working-man or woman finds it impossible to obtain accommodation in the majority of retail stores. A QUARTER OF A CENTURY of experience has taught us that the people are HONEST and CAN BE TRUSTED, and that an account can usually be more easily paid in partial payments than in a lump sum. Upon this basis is founded our CHARGE ACCOUNT SYSTEM. It enables the great masses of people to have the Clothing they need when they need it, the account to be paid in sums and at intervals most convenient to them, there being no extra charge of any kind for this accommodation. We cordially invite your inspection of our business methods as well as of our merchandise.

Your Grandmother's Remedy for Purifying the Blood

And Renovating the System in the Springtime

Ask for Sulpharb Tablets.

What was grandmother's unfailing remedy? Haven't you heard of it? Yes, you have! It was sulphur, cream of tartar and molasses. The main trouble with it was its nauseous taste.

A modern method uses the cream of tartar and sulphur into sugar-coated tablets and mixes them with herbs, roots, etc., making a wonderful tonic blood purifier and system cleanser.

Just try Sulpharb Tablets (not sulphur tablets), but Sulpharb—remember the name—and get the tablets in sealed cases at 50c. per case.

Grown-up people and children who don't feel well, who are constipated or sluggish, or who have pimples, boils, carbuncles, sores and the like, can soon rid the system of these impurities by taking this good old-fashioned remedy in modern form. Their action satisfies or money is refunded by the Pennsylvania Products Company, Dayton, Ohio. A free trial sent to any address. Big 50c. size sold by druggist.—Advertisement.

B. A. A. AND ST. NICHOLAS IN CLASH FOR AMATEUR HOCKEY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

RITCHIE OUT TO WIN BACK TITLE

Bouts Tonight.

Freddie Welsh vs. Willie Ritchie at New York; Larry Burns vs. Joe Goldberg at Lawrence; Walter Butler vs. Charlie Byers at North Abington; Milburn Saylor vs. Mickey Sheridan at Windsor, Ont; Buck Crouse vs. Sailor Grande at Pittsburgh.

BY RINGSIDE.

IF Willie Ritchie is as good a prognosticator as he is a fighter then we shall have a new—or an old—world's lightweight champion tonight.

Take it from this Willie Ritchie person that Freddie Welsh will no longer hold the domineering hand in the 133-pound division after their meeting at Madison Square Garden, New York, this evening, and this in spite of the fact that the clever Britton rules a slight favorite.

RITCHIE is in hopes of emulating the late lamented Stanley Ketchel who, after relinquishing his middleweight title to Billy Papke, retrieved it in their next battle. It will be recalled that Ritchie, up to July 7 last, was the proud possessor of the lightweight champion.

* * *

HE evidently did not care much for the climate, however, for he permitted himself to be enticed to the other side and "jobbed" of the title, as Ritchie himself expressed it.

The peculiar part of it all is that it took Ritchie nearly a year to convince himself that he was the victim of a well-engineered plot.

WHETHER or not Ritchie was "jobbed" is not for us to say; but we will say that it was his unperturbed passion for an additional few thousand dollars that cost him the title.

He voluntarily went to London, knowing that he might be "jobbed," but was willing to take a chance in order to enhance his bankroll.

RITCHIE'S hue and cry come somewhat late and it will avail him nothing, except to get him into disfavor with people who now are friendly toward him. Then again Ritchie may have emitted the "jobbing" squawk in order to attract attention to his forthcoming bout with this same Welsh.

* * *

BUT the fact remains that Ritchie is to get another chance at his title, the chance he has been imploring Welsh to give him ever since that fateful day last July. Now it is up to Ritchie to make good.

Yale Grapplers Win from Harvard Men

NEW HAVEN, March 11.—Harvard grapplers lost their dual meet to Yale, thirteen points to four. Harvard scored only one victory, when De Ward obtained a decision over Holmes of Yale in the 115-pound class. Harvard's other two points were scored on a draw. Baldridge, the Yale football guard, won a spectacular victory over Cook, the Harvard giant, the heavyweight class by flooring him in 2 minutes 26 seconds.

South Boston Boy to Play with Lynn

John J. Sullivan, a well known South Boston ball player, will be given an opportunity by Louis Fieger of Lynn to show his speed in the little old New England League. Sullivan was a big factor in the success of South Boston, Roxbury Red Sox, Laurels of the South End, and other strong teams of Greater Boston.

The climax of the New York hockey season will be reached tonight, when the St. Nicholas Club and the B. A. A., who are tied for the lead in the Amateur Hockey League race, clash for the title at the St. Nicholas Rink, New York.

Hobey Baker's team has already beaten four of the best amateur arenas in Canada, and if they can win from St. Michaels of Canada as well as the B. A. A. they will have a good claim on international amateur honors.

This game should be one of the fastest as well as one of the most bitterly contested of the season. The B. A. A. has already scored one victory over the New York team on the local rink, and it remains to be seen whether it can repeat on a much smaller surface in New York this evening. Here is the team standing:

Thurston-Paige Tie for Billard Lead

Exciting finishes are getting to be the rule in the class A amateur balkline billiard championship of New England, played at the Imperial room. Walter Thurston, by defeating Harry Parker, 200 to 287, goes into a tie with William Paige for first place in the standing, with three games won and none lost. Paige probably will go ahead tonight, when he plays Ray Van Aradale.

Boston Golfer Loses in Palm Beach Play

PALM BEACH, March 11.—Four Metropolitan golfers are left in the semi-final of the Florida State championship as the result of the second round of match play. H. F. Farrington, Woodland, Mass., was defeated by H. Pemberton, Cranford, by 1 up.

The Aberdeens of Ottawa, composed of some of the fastest hockey players across the border, will clash with the Arena seven tonight at the Arena rink in the first of a two-game series.

The locals will be greatly strengthened by the return to the lineup of Captain Patsy Sequin and Pop Conley, who were injured in the Cleveland contest.

Brookline Mermen to Go After World Mark

An open swimming meet with be held at the Boston Y. M. C. A. tank Tuesday evening and it is expected that the best local swimmers will compete. The events will be handicap and include 25 yards, 100 yards, 220 yards, 25-yard breast stroke, 50-yard breast stroke, plunging and diving.

The Brookline relay team will make an attempt to smash the world's relay record at this meet. The record for the event is held by the New York A. C. swimming team, which covered the distance in 1 minute 43 2-5 seconds about a month ago.

Dave Powers Loses to Palitz on Foul

NEW LONDON, March 11.—Dave Powers of Malden, Mass., in a mixup in the centre of the ring, struck K. O. Palitz below the belt in the third round of a scheduled twelve-round bout here and Palitz was carried from his corner in agony. Tommy Shea of New Haven outpointed Howard McHea of Boston in the semi-final.

"The Rabbit's" Column

By Walter J. Maranville, HORSTOP OF THE BRAVES

MACON, Ga., March 11.—Now that we have started our practice games, perhaps the boys are not beginning to show that they are in pretty frisky form. We have started playing exhibitions earlier than ever before, but Stallings arranged it after he saw that most of the players were in good condition and could stand some real competition.

* * *

There are hardly enough men on the squad to line up two teams that would be anything like even, and besides it might not do some of the pitchers, who would have to fill in, a whole lot of good at this stage of the game. These pitchers are being handled pretty carefully this year. They just have got to come through, with every team in the league shooting at us right from the start.

* * *

But the prospect of hard competition has not worried any of the gang a bit. Though it's a month before we start playing any league battles, they cannot come too soon. We went through flying last Fall because we had the pep, and that is what we figure will bring us through again this Spring.

* * *

Unless all signs fail "Big Butch" Schmidt is going to do some hitting this season. Our first baseman slammed them out in pretty good style a year ago, but from the way he is going down here he is out for a record. Everybody else is, for that matter. If there isn't a slump that certainly is not to be looked for, the Braves will have quite a flock of .300 batters.

* * *

With Bill James back, that pitching staff of ours looks natural again. Bill had his trouble with the management and naturally it would not be good policy for me to touch on that part of it. But as far as the ball playing end goes, we are all mighty glad. The batters found the big chap hard to hit last year and he ought to be a lot better this season.

* * *

Secretary Hermann Nickerson received a letter from Bill Sweeney yesterday. Bill, as all you "fans" know, is at Hot Springs with the Red Sox. He was always a hard working, earnest ball player and it is my earnest hope that he makes good from the very start with Bill Carrigan's band of pennant chasers. Sweeney says that he is in grand condition for so early in the season and that he expects to be at his best during the coming baseball campaign.

* * *

Willie Connor has been heard from once more. You all know Willie. He is the champion mascot of the world and was a big factor in bringing luck to the Braves last season. The little fellow writes me that he is eagerly awaiting for the 1915 pennant race to get under way, and that he is anxious to land his old job again. If everything in this world was as certain as Willie is of being named mascot for the Braves for 1915 we would not have much to worry about.

* * *

I have the distinction, if it can be called such, of being the first member of the team to be spiked this year. I was spiked on one of the fingers of my right hand while catching a runner napping off second base in yesterday's game with the Mercer College team. The injury is not a serious one and I will be back at my old position at shortstop today.

Second Red Sox Party Off for the South Today

The Red Sox' rear guard will leave today for the Hot Springs training camp. The party will be in charge of Secretary Eddie Riley of the club.

Besides Riley, the Boston contingent will be composed of Larry Gardner, Harold Janvrin and Olaf Henriksen. In addition, Manager Dave Shean, Catcher Masterman and First Baseman Ostregen of the Providence team will go along as guests of President Lannin.

Del Gainer, Shorten, McNally and Kocker, the latter three recruits, will join the squad when it reaches St. Louis tomorrow afternoon.

Athlete Suspended for Attack on Burns

NEW YORK, March 11.—Severe penalties were meted out to several athletes by the local registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union. John Hehnken, unattached, was suspended for ninety days for attacking Fred Burns of the Boston A. A. in a race at the Millrose A. A. games.

Frankie Mack Is Beaten in Havana

HAVANA, March 11.—Kid Lewis of England defeated Frankie Mack of Beachmont, Mass., in a 24-round bout here.

TIE FOR SECOND IN CITY LEAGUE

The situation as regards second place in the City League is more complex than ever today as a result of last night's matches. Carruth, by the three-point victory over Murray, tied the South End bowlers for the runner-up berth, while Adams Square, although it lost three points to the tail-end Casinos, is only one point behind. Boylston is within a point of Adams Square in spite of its defeat by Chauncy. The scores:

ANDOVER MERMEN DOWN HARVARD

ANDOVER, March 11.—Andover is rejoicing today. The Academy closed its swimming season in a blaze of glory by defeating the Harvard Varsity mermen, 38-25, in a return meet. Harvard defeated Andover at Brookline a short time ago by a narrow margin, and the second meet clearly established Coach Sutherland's boys as supreme over their older opponents.

Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and a party of friends were on hand to see Captain Tom Fitzgerald of the Andover team perform.

The schoolboy star amply repaid them by their trip, for he won the 200-yard relay race for his team from Captain Fullerton of Harvard after a pretty battle, took second in the 50-yard dash and smashed the school record in the 100-yard event. His time in the last named race was 60 seconds flat, 1-5 of a second better than the previous mark made by Rosener, now of Yale varsity team and Captain Fitzgerald.

At close of the meet the members of the team gave Abe Sutherland a valuable present in appreciation of his untiring work as coach of two championship teams.

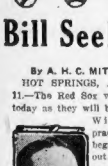
HINT BILL SWEENEY IS AFTER LARRY GARDNER'S POSITION AT THIRD BASE

Hint Sweeney After Third

Bill Seeks Gardner's Job

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 11.—The Red Sox were as sore today as they will be this year.



A. H. C. Mitchell.

With today's practice they began to work out of the business. Tomorrow there will be very l ittle left and by Saturday it all ought to have disappeared,not to return again until they begin training next Spring.

All the players, excepting Ralph Comstock, are getting along nicely. Comstock strained his back in some unaccountable manner, and it's pretty sore today. He thinks he got it in yesterday's bunting practice, but is not sure. Anyway, the back is sore.

That bunting practice was one of the happiest things Uncle Bill has made his men do thus far in training. Many a game can be won by a pitcher if he knows how to bunt.

New Exercise Proves Doubly Beneficial.

Carrigan made his men take turns at the plate for more than an hour, and while Wood, Scott, Ruth, Gregg and Shore pitched, one after another laid the ball down and ran out the hit. The exercise was doubly beneficial, inasmuch as it improved the bunting and also the speed of the players at the same time.

"Policy Bill" Sweeney doesn't go near his old corner at all in practice. He hangs around third base all the time. Maybe there is method in the old fellow's tactics. Perhaps he figures that Larry Gardner is slowing up, and if such is the case he will get a chance at third. At any rate, he cavorts around the hot corner and demands that the ball be hit hard to him in practice. The old boy is going along nicely and looks livelier right now than he did at any time last season.

Germany Schaefer is now working out with the Red Sox squad. The Dutchman has been at Hot Springs for a couple of weeks, but we had seen nothing of him until he showed up at last practice, dressed in the uniform of the world tourists.

Doubtless Carrigan is pleased to have the former Washington player join his gang, even if Schaefer is now a Federal Leaguer. He keeps the boys gingered up as well as amused by his constant patter of bright remarks. He will help pass many a dreary workout. He is very popular with all players.

The Washington club gave him his unconditional release a short time ago, and he found a job with the Kansas City Club of the Federal League.

In Schafer's case none blame him for grabbing a job from the Federals. He had outlived his usefulness in the majors and everybody is pleased to see him get some more money out of baseball.

Lannin Gives Bedient Unconditional Release.

President Lannin has done a nice thing by Hugh Bedient, the former Red Sox pitcher. Hugh was transferred to the Providence club by the Red Sox last Fall. Instead of reporting to Providence, however, he signed up with the "Feds." Mr. Lannin has just written him, giving him his unconditional release from the Providence club, so that if he has a chance to come back to organized baseball in the future, there will be nothing to prevent it. Mr. Lannin's letter to Bedient was as follows:

Hot Springs, Ark., March 10.

Mr. Hugh Bedient, Falconer, N. Y.:

Dear Mr. Bedient—Enclosed please find unconditional release. I understand you have signed with the Federal League for 1915. If so, there may be a time when you would want to return to organized baseball, and I don't want anything to interfere with your so doing. You have my best wishes for your success. Very sincerely yours.

(Signed.) JOSEPH J. LANNIN, Pres.

Quiet Lot of Men Under Carrigan.

With no cut-ups on the squad, no fresh bushers, no singing quartet, no loud talkers and no booze fighters, this Red Sox bunch is a model ball club.

If some one doesn't do something to start the excitement here war correspondents will be like one of W. S. Gilbert's characters, who sings:

Oh, don't the days seem lank and long,
When all goes right and nothing goes wrong,
And isn't the world extremely flat
With nothing whatever to grumble at.

Yes, sir, the young men down here under Carrigan are an extraordinarily quiet and well behaved lot. They are down here to get in condition, and that is the one big thing that is on their minds. When not on the ball field they are all to be found lolling around the hotel lobby. Some are playing cards, others are reading or writing or swapping yarns. They go to bed early, sleep late and attend strictly to business.

SCHOLASTIC SPLUTTERS BY DOC.

Twelve hundred and sixteen boys will compete in the Boston High School regimental track and field games, which are to be held at the South Armory, March 20. The intermediates will furnish the biggest list of entries with 446. Right behind them are the seniors with 439, while the juniors will have 331. The shotput event will be decided at the High School of Commerce Gymnasium on March 18, and the trials in the junior 160-yard dash, the intermediate 220 and the senior 300 and 600 will be held at the South Armory on the following day.

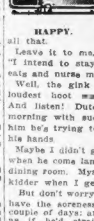
HAPPY SEES BIG THINGS FOR SOX

By HAPPY.



HAPPY.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 11.—Do they ever come back? Leave it to me—See!

You know what I told you about that trip over the mountain when I missed out on the oats. Well, how they wanted me to go again and I gave them the laugh; and how they kidded me. I was a quitter, a yellow dog and all that.

Leave it to me, bo," I told them. "I intend to stay handy to the big eats and nurse my feet." And I did.

Well, the gink that gave me the loudest hoot was Dutch Leonard. And listen! Dutch turned up this morning with such a sore hoof on him he's trying to learn to walk on his hands.

Maybe I didn't give Dutch the hoot when he came lame-ducking into the dining room. Myself, I'm some little kidder when I get started.

But don't worry about Dutch. He'll have the soreness worked out in a couple of days, and anyway, it ain't as if he'd strained his arm. He braced up and was tossing the ball around with the best of them this morning.

Who do you think has showed up here? "Germany" Schaefer, the guy that made Milwaukee famous. Remember when he used to get out on the coaching lines when old Walter Johnson and Joe Wood were begging them over. He's a Fed now, but he's a good scout still. Washington gave him his release; and he's signed up with Newark or somewhere. He just dropped in here to limber up a little. He's wearing the old World Tour uniform, and he's got all his old tricks. Out in centrefield he was doing his rooster flap—you know—and that stunt of running around with his knees bent.

The Boss was glad to see him, because he sure put some new life in the team. It gave them a taste of the old stuff, and they were hot after it. They kept Germany going steady.

He held down first base for a while during bunting practice. Everybody was pushing them down his way to put one over on him, but there weren't many got by. He was scooping them up and beating the boys to the bag right along—and he'd slide when he needed to.

"I'm still there, boys. I can put it over the best of 'em yet," he yelled. And I yells back:

"You're there, Germany, old scout."

It's pretty tough for him to be frozen out of the big leagues. If Walter Johnson sticks with the Feds, and with Germany gone, the old Senators will look like a lot of dubs when they turn up at Fenway Park this year.

But at that ,the Sox are going to make them all look like second raters this season—take it from me.

Willard Balks at Terms of Big Fight

EL PASO, Tex., March 11.—Jess Willard, who arrived here yesterday from California, declared today that his match with Johnson had not yet been arranged to his satisfaction. The matter of finances was still being discussed, he said. Willard has made no preparations for an early departure for Havana.

Latest News of the Big League Training Camps

ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 11.—There were two workouts for the Brown's Regulars and Yannigans. The infields went through a hurry-up fielding practice. A game will be played tomorrow with Rice Institute. Roy Mitchell has left for his home in Belton, Tex., to await assignment to some team, probably Venice of the Pacific Coast League.

NEW YORK YANKEES.

SAVANNAH Ga., March 11.—The Yankee Regulars defeated the Yannigans, 8 to 2, scoring three runs off Keating in one inning. The Bronx shape up like a good fielding team with strong pitchers, but batting strength apparently is still lacking.

BROOKLYN DODGERS.

DAYTONA, Fla., March 11.—President Ebbets and Manager Robinson were the happiest men in all Daytona today. The athletes got a good workout on the diamond. The work on the infield of the last two days had improved it 70 per cent.

PITTSBURGH PIRATES.

DAWSON SPRINGS, Ky., March 11.—Some idea of the Pirate lineup when the season opens was had when two teams were arranged for batting practice, the regular was made up of Johnson first base, Barid second, Gerber shortstop, Viox third base, Lejune right field, Hinchman centre field, and Carey left field, with Schang benind the bat.

NEW YORK GIANTS.

MARLIN, Tex., March 11.—Despite citizens' positive assurances, the weather shows no inclination to reform. Two workouts in a bitter wind that was as cold as snow were had by the Giants and Tesreau was so wild that the batters were afraid of him and protested facing him.

PHILADELPHIA PHILLIES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 11. The Phillies defeated the Cuban All-Stars again, 8 to 1. Oeschger and Rixey pitched for the Phillies, and Fernandes for the All-Stars. Milton Stock, playing third for the Phillies, performed brilliantly, stealing four bases and scoring four runs.

CUBS AND ATHLETICS.

TAMPA, Fla., March 11.—The Athletics lost to the Chicago Cubs again, 7 to 3. The Athletics played a shaky game in the field, three runs scoring on Schang's wild heave to centre. Jimmy Walsh starred at the bat, with two triples and a double, as did Saier and Zimmerman of the Cubs.

CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 11.—By winning today, 6 to 2, the Venice Coast League team made it two out of three from the Chicago Americans. MODESTO, Cal., March 11.—The Chicago American second team easily defeated the Modesto club, 7 to 1.

BROOKLINE HIGH IN ALL-STAR MEET

The championship Brookline High School swimming team will race against an all-star school team at the Brookline Gym tank next Thursday afternoon. It is conceded that no high school team in the country can defeat the Brookline natators, and the all-star team that has been selected will have a big job on their hands.

Russell Dean of Mechanic Arts High, Snow of Malden High, Marling of Huntington School, Hinckley of Rindge Technical, Hartley of Rindge Technical, Jackson of Huntington School, Vogel of Boston English High and two or three other schoolboy stars will appear against the Brookline swimmers.

Braves Out for Second Win

'Big Three' May Work Today

MACON, Ga., March 11.—The ambitious young ball players who represent Mercer College were in rather poor condition when the dear old chimes sounded today for the opening of the second game of their series with the fighting Braves.

The collegians have shown an ability to take a great deal of punishment without asking for quarter but there is a limit to every man's endurance.

Be it known that the Braves engaged in a little old fashioned game of baseball with the college boys yesterday in this fair town.

It was not a glorious day for Mercer, for at the late hour it was officially announced that the world's champions had tallied ten times while the local lads were only able to push three stout-hearted scholars across the well known home plate. The returns are not all in yet. The Boston party, however, is confident that the count in the outlying districts will add to the Braves' plurality.

"Big Three" Will Work in Game Today.

"Miracle Man" Stallings stated that he would probably give a couple of his veteran hurlers an opportunity to perform today. "Hug" Bill James, Dick Rudolph and "Lefty" Tyler are anxious to be allowed to shoot a few fast ones across the plate.

The famous "Big Three" feel confident that they are going to have a great season on the mound and are desirous of showing the natives of Macon how they disposed of the Giants, Athletics and sundry other ball clubs last year.

James is not the least bit disgruntled because he was unable to get his salary boosted from $4,000 to $6,000 a year. He now realizes that he signed a perfectly legal contract, and, as it was drawn up under his own supervision, he has decided that it is best for him to go through with his end of the deal.

Fat Bonus for James If He Makes Good.

It was only natural, of course, for James to get as much money for his services as possible. He realizes that he was a prominent factor in the success of the Braves last season and he believed that he was entitled to an increase in pay. James will play for the same sum he received in 1914, but it is understood that the husky pitcher will be given a fat bonus if he comes through with flying colors this year again.

James kept himself in fine condition during the Winter months. He only weighs 214 pounds, which is not too much for a man of his size. He intends to engage in both morning and afternoon practice while the Braves are here and will probably scale close to 200 pounds when Stallings and his gang of hired men get away in the National League steeplechase.

Stallings has not any intention of forcing his star pitchers at this early stage of the game. They will be allowed to take things easy and that they will be trained to the minute when they get away from the post in April.

Collegians Noisy but That's About All.

But back to dear old Mercer. We will not be permitted to rub elbows with the social leaders of Macon unless we give a little publicity to their honorable Alma Mater. Mercer is a fine educational institution but they have no Ty Cobbs, Johnny Evers or Tris Speakers concealed around the premises. It is a regular small college nine. It possesses the regulation number of ball players and in our humble opinion they are all very healthy individuals.

This last remark was prompted after watching them perform with Braves. They may not be great ball players, but if noise alone won baseball diamond battles they would lead any league without half trying. They yell like a band of Indians, and to say that they have not frightened Johnny Evers and his pals.

Magoon to Coach N. H. S. C.

DURHAM, N. H., March 11.—George H. Magoon of Rochester has been appointed coach of the New Hampshire State College baseball nine. He will take charge of the team on April 1.

State Railroad Ownership Would Be Dangerous Experiment

The proposal that the State of California buy the Western Pacific Railroad and operate it, which took semi-official form in the California Legislature yesterday, is at first blush rather attractive. But calmer consideration will show that the plan is beset with difficulties and that the outcome would almost certainly be complete failure, with the sure incidental postponement of Federal public ownership for many years to come.

The State of California is sovereign over its own affairs within its own borders. Its authority stops at the State line. A railroad owned by this State of California would be subject to its sovereignty as far as the State line and not an inch farther.

The Western Pacific Railroad crosses two States and extends into a third. Part of it is subject to the laws and regulations of Nevada and still another part to the laws and regulations of Utah.

Now suppose California acquires ownership of the whole line. From San Francisco to the Nevada border, California would exercise the powers of a corporate owner and the higher powers of a political sovereign. At the point at which the road enters Nevada this higher sovereign power ceases and California would become merely a corporation owner of a railroad crossing Nevada and entering Utah.

Now what would happen to that road? Why, every other railroad influencing the route of transcontinental freight would at once combine with all other roads to see to it that this State owned railroad got neither passenger traffic nor freight from them.

It is not in human nature to resist such a temptation to make an experiment in public ownership a wretched failure.

The Southern Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern, the Clark Line, the Santa Fe—all of them would use every possible effort to divert business from the Western Pacific, and they could do it.

Owned by the State of California, the Western Pacific Railroad would be a road with one end at tidewater, the other in the air of the desert. It would not get enough diverted traffic from other roads to pay a switchman's wages for a month. And the State of California could not help itself.

We feel an assured confidence that nothing could be more gratifying to the railroad financiers of the country than the acquisition of the Western Pacific by California, for nothing could provide them such an opportunity for demonstrating the failure of public ownership of a railroad.

The Federal government has authority and the means to make the Western Pacific a paying, going railroad concern. The government's sovereignty stops at no State line. It runs everywhere within all the borders of the republic.

In a business way the Federal government is itself a great shipper. It has its mails to be carried, its parcel posts to be accommodated. It has its soldiers to be transported, its munitions of war, its supplies for distant provinces in Alaska, the Philippines and Hawaii. The through business it could provide for its own line is very large indeed.

In addition, the Federal government can bring to naught any conspiracy to divert freight from its terminal line.

The authority which California or any other State possesses not, the United States does possess. And the Western Pacific owned and operated by the Federal government would be an impressive example of the benefits of public ownership just as the Western Pacific, owned and operated by the State of California, would be made by the efforts of other railroads an impressive example of the failure of public ownership.

There are many reasons why State ownership seems desirable. We do not question the motives or the public spirit of those who have suggested this plan. The AMERICAN is gratified beyond measure that its propaganda has already met the approval and enlisted the aid of the State administration. But the AMERICAN is sure that the plan of State ownership is not a desirable plan; that it was born of enthusiasm and haste rather than of calculation.

The AMERICAN stands now where it stood yesterday, and will stand tomorrow—firm in advocacy of public ownership of public transportation utilities.

But the AMERICAN'S deliberate and not hastily formed opinion is that State ownership of interstate railroads is dangerously impracticable and that the hope of the future demands insistence upon railroad ownership by the supreme Federal government. Upon that declaration we stand, knowing that it is right and that finally it will triumphantly prevail.

A Credit to the Force

Citizens of Boston and his comrades in the Police Department have reason to be proud of Policeman Andrew J. Hurley, who fought two burglars single-handed in an Allston apartment house and was blackjacked until he had to shoot one of them to save his own life.

He delayed using a gun until the last extremity and, lying in a dangerous condition in a hospital, manifested more concern over the fate of the criminal who had tried to murder him than over his own wounds, showing that he is as humane as he is brave.

Police everywhere know there is no more desperate ruffian than a burglar cornered in a building he has broken into, and that an encounter with one alone under such circumstances is risking life. Hurley did what hundreds of other Boston policemen would have done without hesitation. Taking them altogether, they are brave, efficient men.

Promise of a Great Educational Awakening in Massachusetts

From the Journal of Education

Not in a generation has there been such cause for rejoicing educationally in Massachusetts as in the devotion of Governor David I. Walsh to the democratization of education in the Old Bay State.

The glory of Massachusetts in the good old days was the perfection of the aristocracy of education. Here American aristocratic education was born, and that was the only idea of American education so long as America was chiefly east of the Alleghenies.

With the opening of the West, the ideal was still aristocratic, and no sons of the West were considered educated unless they came across the Alleghenies to Harvard, Yale or Princeton.

Twenty years ago a democratic education was not considered a genuine article even in the West—but within twenty years there has been an entire change of sentiment. Today the democratic ideal is recognized as vastly more vital, more virile, more valuable to the individual, to the community and to the state than the aristocratic.

This was not agreeable to those whose degrees were perfumed with aristocratic fragrance, and an effort is being made to standardize the institutions of the West by the artificiality of the East.

Millions have been placed behind the effort to deny recognition to any education that is not aristocratic. At any other time in American history the success of this movement would have been complete, but it is nowhere a success west of the Alleghenies, and now a prophet has arisen in Massachusetts and Governor Walsh comes out squarely and emphatically and tells the people of Massachusetts that education by the people and of the people must be for the people.

Fortunately the meeting of all the Governors this year was at Madison, Wisconsin, and Governor Walsh saw there the greatest demonstration in the world of education carried by extension to all the people with a wholesomeness and intensity that thrilled his very soul, and he has come to Massachusetts with a vision for education in this Commonwealth that has never been enjoyed by any other official, educational or professional.

He has called about him a group of open-minded men and has said to them that in every city and town, village and hamlet, there must be for all the young people every opportunity for enlightenment upon every phase of life which can benefit them physically, industriously, civically and scholastically, and that it must go to them in such a way that it will inspire them to manly aspirations.

It is the first great vision of a universal spirit of democracy in education that has been presented officially or professionally. It sounds the death knell to the overlordship of the purely aristocratic in education even in Massachusetts.

It now remains to be seen whether or not the Legislature and the traditional leaders will rally to the standards of Governor Walsh, or whether he must call upon new forces to do the greatest work laid out for educational leaders in a generation.

Dorothy Dix Writes of Milestones on the Road to the Heart of a Girl

A Few Rules as to the Way to Go and How to Reach the Desired Goal

By DOROTHY DIX

A DISCOURAGED young man asks me to tell him how to win a woman's affections. He says that girls like him well enough, that they eat his candy, and go with him gladly to places of amusement, from which he gathers that he is not obnoxious personally to the fair sex, but that when he pops the question, the young woman is So Surprised, and never dreamed that he thought of her in that way, and is So Sorry, and she'll be a sister to him, and so on.

But, says this young man, the Lord has already provided him with all the sisters that he needs, and that what he wants is a wife, and so he asks me to erect a few signboards along the road to a woman's heart that a fellow may follow and not get lost.

Of course, to a certain extent lovers are like poets. They are born, not made. Your real, Simon-pure Romeo knows instinctively how to get around a woman. He's got a way with him that no woman can resist, just as there are women who have a come-hither look in their eyes that's a magnet that draws every man they meet to them. These men and women have the genius for love making.

But those of us who are not endowed by nature with the romantic talent can make a very good substitute for it if we will. It's just a matter of playing the game, and while it may be possible that not every man can win the one woman of his desire, it is certain that every man can make himself popular with women if he chooses.

As for the leads in the game—

Once upon a time I was sent to interview a man who had married forty women, one after another, each of whom he had robbed of her little fortune and then deserted. I asked him what was his secret formula for winning a woman's heart, and he replied contemptuously, "Aw, that's dead easy. Just talk to a woman about herself, and you'll get her going every time."

Words of Wisdom

These were words of wisdom as well as the testimony of an expert. Talk to a woman about herself and you'll get her going, especially if you will talk to her as if she were an intelligent human being.

Men rarely do this. Most men talk to a woman about themselves. If you'll eavesdrop any conversation between a man and a woman, you'll find him monologuing along about his business, his automobile, his score at golf, whatever he's interested in, without giving thought as to whether the woman is being bored or not.

Or, if he talks to the woman about herself, he is telling her what soulful eyes she's got, and what a willowy figure, and wonderful hair. Of course we are all vain and we eat up whatever kind of compliments that are handed us. But women are not particularly keen on being praised for their attractions. What they are pining for is for some man to show a little recognition of the fact that they've got minds and souls, too. So, son, if you want to make a hit with a woman, talk to her about herself, and show a real interest in her thoughts and opinions. That's the flattery that will hit the bull's-eye every time.

The second play in winning a woman's heart is to act like a grown-up man instead of a spoiled baby, or a tyrant. Most men who fail with women fall over one or the other of these stumbling blocks. It doesn't make a girl think what an agreeable life companion a man would make to see him sitting up grouchy and sulky every time he happens to find another man calling on her, or she dances with some one else. Nor does the independent, high-spirited modern girl relish the idea of a man trying to boss her. Freedom is the fetich of the feminine soul in these days, and the man whether he be sweetheart or husband, holds a woman tightest who holds her on the easiest rope.

Study Her Tastes

The third lead in the game is the sentimental card. Study a girl's tastes and gratify these, and you've got her. Men always say they can't understand women. That's because they have never thought it worth while to give more than a casual observance of the subject. For instance a man has a general idea that the way to please a woman is to send her flowers and candy, and books, and take her to the theatre.

So far, so good. But he could get double the value out of his money if he'd make his gifts personal. A man will spend dollars buying American Beauty roses when a girl has told him a hundred times that violets are her favorite flowers. Or he'll purchase expensive boxes of chocolate creams after he has heard her say, if he'd only thought it worth remembering, that she hates candy and dotes on salted almonds. It's the man who sends a girl pansies, because they are like her eyes, or jonquils because they met in the Spring, who has studied her tastes so that he knows just the book and the play that will go straight to the innermost part of her soul that can win any woman's heart.

Whether the best way to win a woman is by watchful waiting or by a whirlwind campaign depends on circumstances. Sometimes the caveman method of wooing appeals to a woman, but it is not to be denied that the man who has the persistence to camp on a girl's doorstep also generally gets her.

The main thing is never to let a woman make a doormat of you. Be useful to a girl, but never let her use you. Be generous, but not easy. Work for her, but don't let her work you, because all love is bound to be founded on respect, and no woman respects a man who isn't a little cleverer and stronger and foxier than she is.

Of course, there are a million other roads than these to a woman's heart, but any one of these followed straight will land you at your heart's desire.
